Racial Violence: Could It Happen In D.C.?

Possible, But Not Likely, Officials Say; Small Minority, High Home Cost Is Cited

By RON BATES

A CAR SCREECHES around the corner at a fast speed. As it turns something is tossed from the window. The object breaks against a building and bursts into flame.

A youth walks down the street on his way home when suddenly an auto pulls to the curb and four young men jump out. The youth is left bleeding.

These are incidents that are happening on American streets in New York, New Jersey and several states in the South. They are part of a protest—a racial protest.

Could they happen in Daly City?

In all probability, no. At least this is the concensus of city and school officials who most likely would be immediately effected should a local racial outbreak occur.

These very same officials admit, however, that trouble is possible. And cognizant of this, they stand ready to take quick action if the need arises.

A PRIMARY rationale used by these officials is Daly City's small Negro population. According to the national census in 1960, there were less than 500 Negroes in Daly City or just slightly over one per cent of the city's population then.

According to recent estimates, the percentage has dropped to less than one per cent as the city's population has jumped from 42,000 to about 57,000 in the four years since the census.

Reports by a committee of teachers and administrators last year on "defacto segregation" within the Jefferson Union High School District pointed out that certain areas within the district will most likely attract more minority group residents as time goes on.

This assumption is based on figures comparing the cost and rents of homes in the older section of Daly City with those in the Ingleside district in San Francisco, a predominately minority neighborhood.

Also, San Francisco's redevelopment program will be sending many minority families who had previously lived in the Western Addition development into the housing market.

The districts in Daly City most attractive to minority groups because of these cost factors are the Crocker-Amazon tract, part of which lies in San Francisco, and the area between Parkview Avenue and the San Francisco city limits and Junipero Serra Boulevard and Mission Street.

Some minorities can be found in Westlake, Broadmoor and St. Francis Heights but for the most part they are absent because of high home costs.

MOST OFFICIALS AGREE that if racial violence should ever develop in Daly City, it would hit the schools first.

Officials of the Jefferson High School District are aware of this and are remaining abreast of current events.

As recently as last month, a meeting was held between school administrators and Wilson Riles, state consultant to the Federal Employment Practices Commission and executive secretary to the state committee studying discrimination in the teaching profession.

The district also asked a teacher committee and the administrative council to investigate and report on "defacto segregation" as it affects the district.

One report gave a breakdown of Negroes in the district's four high schools as of October, 1963. The breakdown was: Jefferson High School, 4.5 per cent; Oceana High School, 1.4 per

N. County Unification Plan Appoved

STATE MUST DECIDE

High School Area to Be Cut in Half

A school unification plan for the North County finally got a geen light from the San Mateo County Committee on School Reorganization last week.

Proposals for unification had been discussed for more than two years.

In two votes, the committee approved splitting the Jefferson Union High School District into two districts.

One would comprise the northern half of the district and would include the areas now encompassed by the Jefferson, Brisbane and Bayshore Elementary Districts.

The other would comprise the second half of the high school district and would include the Laguna Salada Elementary District.

The unification proposal now must go to the State Board of Education for a decision. If the state approves the plan it then would be submitted for a vote by the school district residents.

Elio Fontana, chairman of the high school district's board of trustees, asked to comment on the committee's action said:

"Our stand remains unchanged. We are not in favor of the split. I don't see any reason behind it.

"I'm afraid that if this goes through some of the people in the future are going to suffer

Homeowners Ask Council For Advice

When you want to make a point or get something done — advertise!

This apparently is the credo of five homeowners in the new Foxridge development that was added to South San Francisco as a result of a special election last week.

Sam Cohen, one of the five homeowners in the American Home Guild project near Westboro appeared at the South San Francisco City Council Monday night to seek its help and advice on problems he said the residents are having with the developer.

Cohen charged that the developer had left the homes in "extremely poor" condition and the homeowners were not able to obtain service on a number of major and minor complaints.

The homeowners had got together as a group to ask the developer to repair leaky water heaters, improperly installed windows and doors and install missing parts.

"But," said Cohen, "We got no results."

The argument reached a high point when the homeowners then erected signs on their lawns informing prospective buyers of "poor workmanship and main-

The area between Nintieth Street and midway between Ninty-first and Ninty-second Streets, indicated by diagonal lines, will be the site of the center's buildings. Dotted area between Eighty-ninth and Nintieth Streets is planned for parking. The city recently authorized condemnation proceedings for 24 lots on the south side of Ninty-first Street and ultimately will vacate Ninty-first Street between Sullivan and Edgeworth Avenues. The street will become part of the civic center site. Condemnation proceedings on the rest of the site had been authorized previously.

D.C. Civic Center Tempo Picks Up

The Daly City Council's plan to pick up almost an acre of free land for a proposed civic center between Sullivan and Edgeworth Avenues will slip into second gear this week when City Attorney Paul Hupf files a condemnation suit for 24 lots along Ninety-first Street.

The council had authorized Hupf to begin "eminent domain" proceedings for the 24 lots on the south side of Ninety-first Street last month.

The plan is to obtain the lots, close both ends of Ninety-first Street and vacate it, thereby obtaining 36,000 square feet of land at no cost to the taxpayers.

The 24 lots are presently zoned for single-family homes and should be bought for a "relatively inexpensive" cost, according to Councilman Bernard Lycett. They presently are outside the city limits in San Mateo County but would be annexed later.

According to Hupf, the city has obtained clear title to 58 lots within the original boundaries of the civic center proposal.

The bulk of the land was purchased from the Callen Corporation. One other lot is now undergoing a title search.

The 59 lots have been purchased by the city at a cost of $624,590.

Purchase of five more lots, owned by Colma Councilman Raymond Ottoboni, is in negotiation. A pre-condemnation trial conference has been scheduled for early in September.

The purchase price of the property bought to date actually was about $65,000 higher, but

Worker Is Crushed by Bulldozer

A 26-year-old construction worker was killed instantly about 8:45 Friday morning when he was crushed by a bulldozer being used to grade land in the new Serramonte development of Daly City.

The victim was Robert B. Lanterman, 26, of 139 Nuva Street, Redwood City.

Police said Lanterman apparently was in a crouching position when the operator of the bulldozer backed up the machine.

The operator, William C. Lorenzen, 45, of 311 Loma Vista Terrace, Pacifica, told police he did not see the victim until it was too late.

Lanterman was classified as an apprentice grade checker. He was employed by Luhr and Wendt of West Sacramento, grading engineers.

His job was to guide the operator of the bulldozer in seeing

Mother Faces Fraud Charge

A Pacifica woman, mother of four children, has been accused of two counts of grand theft for allegedly defrauding the County Welfare Department of more than $10,000 since January 1, through failure to report income she has received from wages and social security.

Mrs. Lois E. Ostergren, 33, of 1643 Linda Mar Boulevard, was to appear yesterday before Judge Marcel P. Biscay in Central District Municipal Court to enter a plea to the charges.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Robert Carey said that the alleged fraud was uncovered by

THEY'RE HERE TONIGHT

The Beatles: Part II

PART TWO of Operation Beatles gets under way tonight in Daly City and a small army of law enforcement personnel will be on hand for the occasion.

Part one took place yesterday when the mop-haired British imports landed at Beatlesville, a fenced-off high security area at San Francisco International Airport.

A huge crowd of teen-agers welcomed the quartet but only 16,500 of their fans will be on hand in the Cow Palace tonight for part two. That figure is the capacity for the Cow Palace.

The army of lawmen will include 25 Daly City officers, 125 sheriff's deputies and 25 San Francisco patrolmen.

DALY CITY police will be primarily responsible for traffic and crowd control outside the sports arena.

Inside control will be the lot of the sheriff's deputies while San Francisco's finest will handle the crowds and traffic on their side of the Daly City-San Francisco line.

Capt. Roy Beecher, who will be in charge of the Daly City force, said "we expect a busy night but we don't expect too much of a problem."

He predicted that from 2,000 to 5,000 youngsters who don't have tickets for the Beatles' show will turn up anyway to greet the Englishmen when they arrive.

JESD Puts 14 Buildings Up for Sale

By MARILYN BRANNAN

Trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District voted Monday night to adopt a revised resolution governing the sale of 14 houses now located on the site of the future expansion of Woodrow Wilson School.

The trustees will open bids for the purchase of the homes at a public meeting at 10 a.m. September 9. The meeting will be held in the district's offices at 101 Lincoln Avenue, Daly City.

The revised resolution requires all buildings to be sold for cash with payment due within 30 days of purchase.

Buyers must remove all buildings and improvements within the 30-day limit.

The trustees also approved preliminary blueprints for the new school.

Board members have disagreed somewhat about the use of multiple spaces within the preliminary plan but district superintendent Richard L. Foster assured the board that approval of the blueprints is with the understanding that revision may be made at any time.

The plan features a relatively new concept in school design.

The concept combines several study areas and a central instructional region into one large

Requirement Of Residence Eased a Bit

The Daly City Personnel Board relaxed the strict residence requirement for city employees slightly last week by permitting them to live in the nearby Colma and Broadmoor areas.

Previously, employees of the city had to become residents of Daly City once they had completed their probationary period.

Several new employees complained of the requirement, say-

Unification Plan Gains Approval

from what people have done now."

Fontana added that he was rather sure the proposal would not be approved by the state. The committee's two votes last night were cast in two different locations.

In the early part of the evening, the committee met in augmented session in the cafeteria of Jefferson High School and voted 8-5 for the unification of the northern part of the district.

The committee then adjourned to Oceana High School in Pacifica where it reconsidered a previous vote to unify the southern half of the district.

This unification plan was approved seven to three. The previous ballot, five to three in favor, had lacked one vote for an absolute majority of those eligible to vote and therefore was ruled insufficient to approve the plan.

The deciding vote at Oceana last week was cast by Dr. Andrew White, a Ravenswood District trustee who had abstained in the previous voting because he said he felt that as a new member he had not heard all the arguments.

Voting against the northern unification plans were Committee Chairman Paul Bradley, Committee Members Walter Henkle, Everett Kindig and the Jefferson High and Bayshore Elementary Districts.

At Oceana, Bradley, Kindig and the high school district cast "no" votes.

Before the first votes, James Cooper, vice chairman of the Jefferson High School Board of Trustees, presented a statement of philosophy on proposals. He asked for a "no" vote.

He said the committee should get on with the job of presenting an acceptable recommendation to the state by voting unanimously for total unification of the Jefferson High School District.

He pointed out that the north county districts were in danger of losing $326,610 in bonus money as a result of the Unruh Unification Act.

Under the act if unification receives a "yes" vote before June 30 of next year Jefferson Elementary would receive $141,300; Laguna Salada, $116,265; Jefferson High $86,235; Brisbane, $10,875 and Bayshore, $7,935.

Once the vote to split was accomplished most of the discussion centered around the composition of the new board for the northern unified district.

O. Wayne Douglas, chairman of the Jefferson Elementary School District, cited a Supreme Court decision on apportionment of State Legislature.

He said a proposal to create a five man board, elected at large but from trustee districts, would, in effect, dilute the votes of residents in Daly City and would go against democratic principles outlined in the Supreme Court decision.

tenance," of the homes, Cohen said.

"We received a phone call Sunday morning at 10:30 from the developer informing us that if the signs were not down by noon, we would get no service for a month," Cohen said.

"And for each additional day the signs remained up, two weeks would be added to the month."

Cohen said the signs are still up and the homeowners are contemplating plans to picket the Palo Alto offices of the firm if the repairs aren't made soon.

Mayor Patrick Ahern said the area would not legally be a part of the city for at least another 30 days. He promised that the city would do everything it could to help the homeowners.

"In the meantime," Ahern said, "I would suggest you get together with your neighbors and get bigger signs."

Cohen's story prompted several comments from the audience.

Former Councilman Vic Bordo said the city should be more strict with builders who come "just to make a fast dollar and then get out, leaving the city holding the bag."

John Siacotos, president of the West Winston Manor Homeowners Association, suggested the city review its building code and perhaps ask the county to bring pressure against the Foxridge builders in order to get satisfaction for the homeowners.

Cohen said the homes are in the $26,000 to $31,000 bracket and that homeowners have paid at least $6,000 to $7,000 down.

In other business, the council took several legal steps to improve Butler Road from Bayshore Freeway to the city's Oyster Point marine and dump area.

Over the objection of the E. H. Edwards Rope and Wire Company, the council authorized formation of a $227,722 assessment district in the city's industrial section along Butler Road.

The city engineer had estimated the cost around $260,980 but a low bid from the Lowrie Paving Company resulted in the $227,722 figure.

Improvements to Butler will include paving, grading, construction of curbs and gutters and the movement of utilities, and drainage lines.

In other action, the council

Canvassed the votes of last week's special Westborough annexation election and held the first reading of an ordinance formally annexing the area.

ing the cost of homes in the city was too high.

A suggestion that the requirement be eased had been turned down by the Personnel Board several times before.

The change was recommended by City Manager Edward Frank.

In other business, the board authorized employees to accumulate 150 days of sick leave. The leave will be accrued at the rate of 12 days a year.

A recommendation to that affect by the city manager originally had been turned down by the Personnel Board.

will be under the command of Capt. Alvin J. Prara, who is now the Cow Palace's chief security officer.

Last week, Prara said three girls, about 12 or 13 years old, came to his office to see his boss, Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore.

Told that he was away, the girls explained they had wanted to ask Whitmore if he actually was going to see the Beatles in person and talk to them and perhaps even touch them.

Prara said he told them that Whitmore had already met Ringo, the quartet's drummer, and this caused the girls to start screaming and crying.

When he showed them a photograph of the sheriff and Ringo together, Prara said, the girls nearly became hysterical.

MEANWHILE, Whitmore said last week that he and his secretary were harrassed all one day with phone calls from a girl who identified herself as "Miss Irate Beatles Fan."

She complained about the sheriff's statements that the Beatles should be required to pay for the special police protection they require and that they ought to be arrested for causing riots.

After their performance tonight, the Beatles are booked for an engagement at the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles.

cent; Terra Nova High School, none, and Westmoor, one-fourth of one per cent.

The Administrative Council report stated that previous charges of unfair distribution of supplies and equipment, inferior teaching and inadequate plan facilities did not have any basis in fact.

The report also noted that every effort is being made to reach responsible parents in the Negro community and meetings have been called on a continuing basis to discuss mutual problems with them.

"The administration and the faculty must take steps to do everything possible to break down racial barriers within the school and should have a positive program for integration," the report stated.

"These steps must be taken in anticipation of a rising Negro population within the area so that when the statistics change to a much higher level of Negro attendance, there will be adequate machinery for the absorbtion of this ethnic group.

That the administration is not afraid of the racial question was evidenced by a one-day symposium at Jefferson High last semester covering a range of political and racial questions and featuring such speakers as Dr. Thomas Burbridge, one of the Negro civil rights leaders in San Francisco.

THIS CALM picture in Daly City was not always thus.

Violence erupted as recently as four years ago when two teen-age gangs — the Hawaiian Warriors and the Los Fantisimos — met on the Jefferson campus for a rumble.

Assistant Probation Officer Pat Hiram, who handles most of the probation cases for this area, said that most teen gangs are made up of minority groups, who believe there is safety in numbers.

At the time of the Jefferson rumble, there were eight gangs in Daly City, including an all-girl group called "The Teen Queens."

One of the best known groups was the "Barts" who were involved in a slaying at Thornton Beach three years ago.

A concerted drive by police, city officials, and the probation department resulted in arrests and, left leaderless, gang activity in Daly City disappeared.

Hiram said that close cooperation between the police, the probation department, the recreation department and school officials has kept the situation in good control.

BOTH HIRAM and Daly City Juvenile Officer Sgt. Phillip LaBurzzo point out that most juvenile problems occur during the time school is in session.

LaBruzzo says, however, that he has had no more of a problem with racial minorities than he has had with caucasians.

"We may say a problem does not exist now," he said, "but tomorrow one may come up."

Mayor Micheal DeBernardi summed up the whole situation by saying:

"We're (the council) aware of the national problem and we're aware that it could happen here. When and if anything happens here we'll take the necessary steps."

chambers of commerce against the hike in fares.

A PUC notice to the council says Greyhound states the purpose of the increase is to boost revenues from commuters in the Bay Area to offset costs for new buses and other expenses incurred since the last rate increase seven years ago.

Councilmen discussed at some length a petition submitted by disgruntled property owners in the Brighton Canyon area, protesting a recent Planning Commission decision to rezone two parcels of undeveloped land in that area from single residential to multiple residential.

The petitioners maintain the decision was made over the objections of the majority of the neighboring property owners and that the deciding vote was cast by a commission member who is actively engaged as a builder in Pacifica.

They asked that the Planning Commission reconsider the rezoning and rule the previous vote invalid due to a possible conflict of interest.

Councilmen then heard a letter from the zoning applicants who asked the matter be tabled until they could prepare answers to questions being raised.

The matter will be discussed further at next week's meeting of the council.

415 TO 9 VOTE

Westborough Is Added to S.S.F.

Westborough, rejected by Daly City three years ago, was formally accepted by South San Francisco Monday night.

The City Council canvassed the ballots of a special election held last week that found the subdivision's residents favoring affiliation with South San Francisco by a 415 to 9 tally.

The council also held the first reading of an ordinance bringing the area into the city.

There are 706 registered voters in the community. By precinct, the vote was: first precinct, 177 yes, five no; second precinct, 288 yes, four no, and absentee ballots, 10 yes.

The subdivision was developed by former supervisor Thomas Callen and his family. The uninhabited portion of the subdivision was annexed by South San Francisco last year.

Daly City attempted to annex the area in 1961 but in a referendum, Daly City residents subsequently killed the move. The Daly City Council had tried to annex the then uninhabited portion by also taking in a long strip running along Skyline Boulevard.

Leaders in the referendum move argued that the city would be taking in only homes and "town house" developments as proposed by Callen. They also argued that it would cost too much to provide services to Westborough.

Since then, Daly City has annexed the former Christen Ranch area, now called Serramonte. This area abuts the Westborough development.

San Bruno had been vying with South San Francisco for Westborough and had provided fire and police protection services up until two months ago when South San Francisco took over the services.

the city subtracted money still owed by the property owners for the Ninetieth Street Assessment District.

The assessment district was formed last year to improve streets, lighting and drainage lines in the area.

The council's original plan was to buy a full block of property between Sullivan and Edgeworth and Ninetieth and Ninety-first Streets and 16 lots across from the block for parking.

room instead of utilizing traditional separate classrooms.

Supt. Foster told the board he had just returned from visiting an elementary school in Texas where multiple spaces had been in use since 1957.

He said the technique had been found to be more effective in terms of learning than the standard classroom setup.

"Accoustical flooring throughout insured maximum soundproofing in the study areas as less noise was reported than in walled-in rooms," he noted.

In other action, Trustee Thomas F. Noonan asked Foster to draw up a plan regarding the construction of new cafeterias at George Washington and Abraham Lincoln Schools as recommended by the cafeteria study committee.

Foster said the state will give the district $50,000 toward the cost of construction of new cafeterias.

Noonan asked Foster to prepare a feasible plan of procedure so that the trustees would have someting concrete to consider.

The question of whether or not to raise the board's liability insurance from the present $250,000 to $1,000,000 and $500,000 to $1,500,000 was answered after two weeks of discussion.

Trustees decided to renew the present policy and directed the superintendent to continue study of typical insurance case judgments in the Bay Area and report back to the board.

Trustee George G. Perry, main proponent of increasing coverage, declared:

"I don't say our coverage is low. I just want to be sure it is adequate in this day and age."

The board accepted a $63.30 gift from the Abraham Lincoln P-TA. The school's student council, which provided $28.30 of the gift, asked that that sum be used for library books. The remaining $35 is for the renewal of magazine subscriptions.

After all items on the agenda had been considered, Noonan recommended the board go on record in opposition to Proposition 14, the controversial amendment to repeal the Rumford Fair Housing Act.

The board voted to prepare a resolution encouraging a "no" vote on the proposition in the November election. Board Vice Chairman Joseph Lewkowitz abstained from voting. Lewkowitz is a realtor.

that grading operations met specifications.

Lorenzen said that he was in the process of turning his machine around and getting it into position when the accident occurred.

Police said Lanterman apparently was working with a level or footage markers, which they said, would explain why he was in a crouching position.

Immediately after the tragedy, work on the Serramonte project ceased for the day—following an old custom in such incidents.

The Serramonte development is a $220-million planned community undertaking on the former Christen Dairy Ranch, annexed to Daly City last year.

First phase of the project is a grading program geared to move 4,500,000 cubic yards of earth.

JESD Participa ting in Study of How Teachers Can Maximize Hours

By MARILYN BRANNAN

WHETHER OR NOT today's schoolteacher actually has the time she needs to give her utmost to her students is a question facing both the nation's educators and parents.

The Jefferson Elementary School District has been selected by the National Education Association as one of two districts in the United States to help solve this perplexing question and find a way to give the teacher more "time to teach."

Officials from the association asked the district to co-operate in a time to teach study. In so doing, they complimented the district on its "optimum relationship between the administration and teaching staff."

Preliminary steps in the experimental study were undertaken in May when teachers and principals from Thomas Edison and Colma Intermediate Schools completed detailed questionnaires relating to their opinions on various school problems. Two more schools will enter the study in September.

THE QUESTIONNAIRES covered such issues as teacher-pupil ratios in the classroom, adequacy of available instructional materials and teaching aids, the amount and frequency of non-teaching duties delegated to teachers, and the nature of impositions made upon the staff by administrators.

These confidential inquiries promptly were returned to the NEA for analysis. The association is tabulating the data and will compile from it a report to be sent to the school principals before September.

Each report will contain an evaluation of the weak points disclosed by the replies and a recommendation to the principal and his staff on the best ways to resolve the problems brought up.

The next phase of the experiment, hopefully, will lead to the solution of the problems.

All teachers and administrators will work together to follow NEA suggestions, revise prevailing methods, and in turn give the teacher more time to build top classroom conditions and exercise his own professional judgment to a greater degree.

THIS PROFESSIONAL JUDGMENT is considered by the NEA as an important consideration. The association has raised the question:

"How can teachers themselves be given more opportunity to determine the conditions under which they will work? Surely the classroom teacher should have maximum freedom to control as many of these factors as possible."

At the end of the 1964-65 school year, the NEA will resurvey the teachers and principals to determine whether the previous questions have been answered, whether teachers and administrators were able to solve their differences together and whether teachers gained more time to devote to their basic task, the educating of youngsters.

Malcom M. Provus, director of the NEA department of classroom teachers, says the major intent of the association is to "determine the extent to which teachers and administrators working in close co-operation can identify critical time to teach problems and take action to remedy these problems within the normal limitations of time and money available at the local school level."

DISTRICT SUPERINTENDENT Richard L. Foster is happy to have his district selected to join the NEA in this project.

"We are delighted to participate and consider it a great compliment to our schools and staffs to be considered so highly by this national group."

Foster says he is pleased with teacher-administration relations in his district and feels many of the problems threatening the teachers' time to teach already are being solved.

"However," he adds, "The NEA feels this is a great national dilemma and we are happy they have asked us to help them to solve it."

Foster poinns out that the Jefferson district has freed its teachers for more time to prepare and teach by hiring noontime supervisors and full time secretaries in every school.

He adds that remedial help will be available in eight of the district's schools next fall to give the teacher even more freedom.

"All staff meetings are voluntary and teachers can select which ones they should attend," he adds.

The three focal points of the NEA experiment are:

1. Board and administration policies with respect to teacher responsibility.
2. Teacher-administrator togetherness on all learning situations and professional decisions.
3. Teachers' use of the subtleties of instruction to enhance and accelerate menaingful learning.

Foster commends this project as a living example of how people in a free society can work together to attempt to solve their own problems.

An added compliment to the district was voiced by the NEA's provus when he praised the district on it's "willingness to face up to real school problems no matter what they may be as identified by the school staff."

S.S.F. Girl Struck by Car

A two-year-old South San Francisco girl was badly hurt last Tuesday afternoon when she ran into the street in front of her home.

Denise L. Paterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Paterson, 120 Adrian Avenue, was treated at Peninsula Hospital for head injuries and a possibly fractured hip.

Police said they were told the child ran in front of a slow-moving automobile being driven by a neighbor, Mrs. Anna Palacios, 45, of 136 Adrian Avenue.

She told police she heard something bump as she passed by two parked cars. She got out of her auto and found the child lying in the street.

Fighting Erosion With Oats

OATS ARE being sown by summer employes of the Daly City Park Department in the Crocker Hills, just below a Daly City reservoir. The oats, according to Park Superintendent August Conci, will help to halt water runoff and erosion from the hill where the city just completed installation of a 12-inch transmission line from the reservoir to the Southern Hills development. The transmission line, which enables the city to drain one reservoir into another for claening, cost over $48,000. Conci said that by using summer help on this project the city saved about $800.

Zoning Bid To Be Aired Fourth Time

Two items concerning apartment developments along Eastmoor Avenue are on the agenda of the Daly City Planning Commission Tuesday.

The commission will tackle a long agenda because there was not a quorum present at last week's meeting.

One of the Eastmoor Avenue projects is a rezoning request from developer Gus Pedemonte for property north of Eastmoor and east of Zita Manor from commercial to apartments.

The project has been held up because of protests from residents of Zita Manor. They have argued that the advantages of cul-de-sacs in their neighborhoods would be eliminated by traffic generated as the result of the proposed apartments.

This will be the fourth time the commission has taken up the rezoning request.

The other item concerning Eastmoor Avenue apartments is a request from Henry Doelger Builders Incorporated, to zone unclassified property across from Westmoor High School for apartment use.

Apartment zoning is also being sought by Stanley Toy of San Francisco for property located between Acton Street and Alturas Way and by Ralph Smith of San Francisco for property located near Acacia and Schwerin Streets in the Bayshore section.

Ed Wendt of San Bruno is asking for a use permit to built apartments in a commercial zone on the south side of 88th Street between Sullivan and Edgeworth Streets.

In other action, the commission will take action on: use permits for seven signs; a continuance of a nonconforming use at 901 Hanover Street; a lot coverage variance at 126 East Market Street, and an accessory building to be used as a garage at 701 Templeton Avenue.

Arrest Made For Furnace Fraud in SSF

South San Francisco detectives this morning arrested a San Francisco furnace salesman on two counts of attempted grand theft by fraud.

David Leroy Winans, 46, 587 Banks Street, San Francisco, salesman for the Admiral Heating Company of San Francisco and Oakland, was to be arraigned in Northern District Judicial court later today.

Police are seeking another man, who will be arrested on similar charges.

With four witnesses at hand, Police Chief John Fabbri said many other similar "sales" have apparently been made in this area within the past year. He suggested that homeowners contact their police chiefs if they

Ticky Tacks Elects First Exec Council

The new Ticky Tacky Teen Club sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department is currently conducting balloting for members of the club's first executive council.

During the organizational period, a voluntary committee has been formed to plan and conduct club activities.

Current activities on the club calendar include a special "Battle of the Bands" contest Tuesday, a trip to the State Fair on September 3, and a gala Bay Cruise and Boat Dance on Tuesday, September 8.

Plans for the fall are for the club to meet every other Saturday evening either at Westmoor High School or at a special event. Tentative activities will include a carnival, hootenanny, and a snow trip.

The First Of Many

That road that veers to the right as you drive up Alemany Boulevard from the Coast Highway is the first of a series of detours that will be opened in the next few months around the intersection of Alemany and Junipero Serra Boulevards, according to Daly City Engineer William Chapman.

Construction of a massive interchange there will necessitate several re-routings.

Motorists who regularly travel the road were somewhat startled when they drove over the detour the first time because of a change in road grades.

"These state detours always seem to be unpopular," Chapman said. "But so far no complaints have been received."

WESTMOOR WATER

Repair Funds Bid Studied by State

The State Allocations Board has under consideration a request by the Jefferson Union High School District for $188,749 to pay for the cost of replacing Westmoor High School's hot water heating system.

The request was formally presented to the board last week in Sacramento by Edward D. Morgan, Jefferson Union High School District superintendent.

He had interrupted a vacation in order to personally argue the merits of the district's request. Administrative assistant Richard Coltrell accompanied Morgan to the meeting.

The board said it would discuss the request again at its next meeting September 15. The district was asked to provide additional data in the interim.

Paul I. Hoyenga, the board's assistant executive officer, said the repair, maintenance or replacement of such a heating system is not the type of project the board deals with.

"Where do you draw the line," Hoyenga said. "Approval of the district's request would appear to establish a precedent."

Morgan said that the heating system was installed when the 2,100-student school was completed in 1957.

"The major break in the heating pipes occurred on March 12, 1964," Morgan said. "At times we were losing 20,000 gallons of water a day."

Morgan displayed before the committee a sample of warped piping and said that the San Mateo County district attorney has begun legal proceedings against the original contractors.

Morgan said that work nearly has been completed on a new overhead heating system but that the district's general fund is practically depleted and that the money for the system will have to come from other sources.

"I am inclined to take the side of the school," said Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, (D.-Sacramento.) But Green added that it was a "very difficult point to consider."

Hoyenga said he was not sure if the amount could legally be loaned to the district, but that some action would be taken at the board's September 15 meeting.

Shorter for Commuters

North County commuters can leave a little bit later to reach destinations in San Francisco today.

The state yesterday opened up another section of State Highway 82 (the Southern Freeway) providing motorists with a safer, signal-free ride from the southwest corner of San Francisco to downtown San Francisco and the Bay Bridge.

The highway is being opened to traffic in advance of total completion of the construction work to alleviate crowded traffic conditions, according to district engineer Alan S. Hart.

Contractor's forces will be working for some time along the new freeway removing structure falsework and old pavement markings and striping the new lanes.

The new section, from Mission Street to Orizaba Avenue, has been constructed in two contracts.

The freeway will end at the intersection of Junipero Serra and Alemany Boulevards in Daly City where a massive interchangei s planned.

WHEN AL FIGONE, Terra Nova baseball coach, was playing minor league ball in the Chicago Cubs' organization several years ago, he acquired an idol by the name of Rogers Hornsby, who, if anyone need be reminded, was the greatest right-handed batter who ever lived.

Figone's association with the Rajah was when Hornsby was a roving batting instructor for the Chicago system.

Hornsby, besides being a great baseball player, was, until the day he died, one of the most controversial, colorful, outspoken and hard-headed figures in the history of the game.

He believed in the old school of baseball, was absolutely rigid in his thinking about that, and never in the slightest changed his ideas.

He was an almost total failure as a manager, despite the fact that many considered him one of the smartest players who ever trod a field.

Figone believes Hornsby's failures as a manager were due to the fact that he expected the same perfection from his players that he had himself mastered as a player.

This was too tall an order for anybody who ever played under Hornsby.

He didn't smoke or drink, though he wasn't above fancy cussing and he was so fanatic about protecting his valuable batting eyes that he never went to the movies. He never talked to an opposing player, unless the other player spoke first, and when he did, the remark was often derogatory, irritating or challenging.

HORNSBY'S ONLY recreation was horse playing, for which he was several times severely reprimanded by the late Judge Landis, Commissioner of Baseball.

"He just didn't realize," says Figone in reference to Hornsby's managerial failures, "that today's players are different than those of the '20's and '30's.

"Many players today look upon baseball as a side income, what with their bowling alleys, real estate and insurance business, and all the rest. In Hornsby's day, a baseball player played baseball, period. If he hunted and fished in off-season — for no profit — he was happy."

One time, Figone asked Hornsby's opinion of today's managers. He replied:

"Today's managers are 'yes' men. They do what the front office wants. I was never a 'yes' man and never will be."

Figone best remembers Hornsby for his frankness. One day he said to Al: "Kid, you're 22 and still playing class D baseball. These people in the front office'll tell you to keep going, because they've got rosters to fill. Hell, you're not going anywhere. Go home, get a job, and settle down."

Figone did.

What incident, in Figone's experience, best typified Hornsby?

"One day we were discussing batting and I asked Hornsby his opinion of Joe Gordon's theory of batting, which was quite different from Hornsby's.

" 'It's not worth a damn,' said Hornsby.

"And that was Hornsby," Figone said. "His way was the only way."

ABOUT ALVIN DARK and the alleged "quotes" from that Long Island columnist making Dark look like a bigot.

To begin with, even if Dark did say those things (which we doubt — at least in the way in which the quotes were presented) — the columnist had no business printing them.

He admits he didn't take notes and this could mean only that Dark was talking to him privately, off the record, unaware that what he was saying would be printed "verbatim."

Any newspaperman, if he wanted to destroy all confidences and assure himself of never again being granted an interview by anyone higher than a batboy, could daily come up with quotes that would make Dark's remarks seem like small talk.

Men under great pressure often say things they don't really mean, and/or say them in ways that they'd take back, if they could, two minutes later.

But the real point is that for Dark to have said the things that guy said he did would stamp Alvin as an idiot, which he certainly isn't.

On the face of it, the statement attributed to Dark that Negro players are just not bright enough and quick enough to run bases alertly, is absolutely ridiculous what with Willie Mays on his team, and Maury Wills now in Los Angeles — and, oh yes, there is Junior Gilliam and Willie Davis and then there was Jackie Robinson. All of them pretty fair base-runners—all men Alvin has played and managed against.

As far as the Giants go, you can't pin slow thinking on Negroes alone because, let's face it, the Giants are just not an intelligent team, white or black.

If more Giant skulls are committed by Negroes than by white players, it's only because Negroes tend to be on bases more than the whites.

We protect, here, Dark's integrity, his fairness, his intelligence, yea, even his baseball knowledge.

What the whole "racial prejudice" incident did bring out, we believe, is that Dark is just not capable of handling an unintelligent team of any race, color, or creed.

Alvin would make some other team a great manager, but he isn't cut out, apparently, for the Giants. Perhaps he's not tough enough, perhaps its many things.

REMEMBER, managing a baseball team is not a test of knowledge but a test of interpersonal relations.

Dark, in this case, doesn't have the right chemical make-up to blend with the Giants.

The way they grope their way around the field, perhaps nobody does. But we still feel that Horace Stoneham is correct in seeking the right combination and that he was also right to cancel Dark's mid-season firing — always a mistake in a pennant drive, anyway — in the face of possible injury to Dark's career over that columnists remarks.

But Dark will go at the end of '64 and rightly so.

County CYO Soccer Loop Is Organized

A new Catholic youth Organization (CYO) Soccer League is being formed in San Mateo County, from Daly City to Menlo Park.

Teams will be entered from parishes throughout the county.

According to sponsors, the league will be divided into at least three sections. At present, the sections are (1) Daly City, South San Francisco and San Bruno, (2) Millbrae, Burlingame and San Mateo and (3) Belmont, San Carlos, Redwood City and Menlo Park.

At the end of the season, a playoff series will be held to decide the Peninsula CYO champions who, in turn, will play against the San Francisco CYO champions.

The soccer league will be comprised of two divisions: seventh and eighth grades combined and sixth grade and under.

Play will be conducted during September and October.

The league will be open to both Catholics and non-Catholics. Persons interested in serving as coaches are urged to contact their parishes.

Contests Set In Tumbling

Daly City playground tumbling competition will be held this week at each playground. Contestants will compete in three age groups: 7 to 9, 10 to 12 and 13 and over.

Archery championship competition also will be conducted at the playgrounds.

Archery winners will compete in a junior Olympics program from 10 a.m. to noon tomorrow.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"
REGULAR DENTAL CARE

Reduction of the consumption of sugar, proper toothbrushing can do much to reduce the prevalence of dental decay in children. All dental decay, however, cannot be prevented. There is no substitute for regular visits to the dentist.

Your children should pay their first visit to the dentist between 2½ and 3 years of age, shortly after all their primary teeth have erupted.

There are a number of advantages in early and frequent visits to the dentist:

(1) tooth defects and dental disease can be detected and corrected in their early stages
(2) the dentist can observe and correct irregularities in the growth of teeth
(3) pain can be prevented
(4) cost of care can be reduced

In Northern California, Dr. Campbell limits his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plats, removable bridges and extractions for same; however, he recommends tha tyou see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth as even the most beautiful modern dentures are not as efficient as healthy natural teeth.

Westlake Bowl

AS THE SIXTH Annual Daly City Police Athletic League Benefit Bowling Tournament started, Tee Rolling gave the girls a real target with the highest scratch series by a lady in the history of Westlake Bowl PAL competition. With her handicap included, Tee posted a total of 694 to take the early lead in the ladies division.

With over 100 bowlers competing in the opening night's squad, Myron Williams took top honors for the men with a 649 series, one pin ahead of Bill Greer who posted a 648 total. Myron's score didn't stand for even 24 hours as Earl Taylor came along the following day to shot 654 and take over the lead. Other leaders after the opening weekend were Chris Wroten with 643 and Angelo Baldelli with 638. In the ladies' division, second place was held by Pat Pawson with 645, followed by Mercedes Johnson with 637, Dolly Theilen with 618 and Dorothy Hamilton with 615.

Open play competition continues until September 7 with more and more valuable prizes being received every day. It is hoped that over $5,000 can be realized from the tournament for the youth program of Daly City.

As the Summer Sets League came to an end, the Alley Byes team took the championship as Captain Jenny Eliopoulus led teammates Mary Ann Peppin, Bernice Scanlon and Beverly Waisanan. In the final days sweepstakes, Ethel Daly took first prize with a big 611 series.

Dave Devila rolled a 208 game and 593 series to lead the Country Club Handicap League for the week.

BETTY CILEO and Jay Hocker found the Monday evening No-Tap Scotch Doubles to be quite profitable as they took first prize of $14 as Marie Ratto and Gene Tarczy won the $10 second prize. Third place went to Al Armstrong and Ann Cordes with a prize of $6 as Becky and Bob Cascino took $4 for fourth prize. This popular feature will again be held Monday evening at 7 p.m. In the 805 Scratch League, Bob Belluomini took top honors with a 203 game and 559 series.

As the starting dates of the winter season approach, more and more bowlers are looking forward to getting back into the bowling habit. With the installation of the Brunswick A-2 equipment expected to be completed by the end of this month, Westlakers will be enjoying the "new pace in bowling."

There are still openings in most of the leagues for men and women, beginners and advanced, in both scratch and handicap leagues. As in the past, the junior program will be held Saturday mornings with a special Father and Son League scheduled for Sunday mornings.

COMMENT

Good News for The Long Run

ANOTHER INDICATION of improved relationship between neighboring San Francisco and San Mateo Counties may have escaped the eyes of readers in the press of recent exciting news breaks.

This was the action taken by the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission in authorizing a $295,000 appropriation request for engineering two water filtration plants on the Crystal Springs watershed area, one in the the San Andreas Lake area above Millbrae and the second to be located west of San Mateo below the Crystal Springs Lake reservoir.

The major part of the appropriation would be used for plans, specifications and consulting services for the San Andreas filtration plant and the minor amount for the preliminary report and soil and foundation explorations at the site of the plant proposed west of San Mateo.

It is expected that the San Andreas plant will be completed by 1967.

ALL OF THIS is long-range good news for Peninsulans who have long been wanting quality water and relief from strong chlorination processes.

But it is even better news in its augury of improved relations and understanding between two metropolitan counties whose interests have strong mutual inter-dependence.

When it is added to the other recent determination of San Francisco's new Public Utilities Manager James K. Carr, to explore the opening of portions of the beautiful watershed area to recreational purposes, the total is a significant change in thinking where such a change was long overdue.

Even more news in this direction will get a hearty welcome from Peninsulans.

Is Safety Marketable?

THE CHAIRMAN of New York's legislative committee on traffic safety wants the states and the federal government to join in sponsoring development of a prototype automobile completely designed for the protection of its occupants.

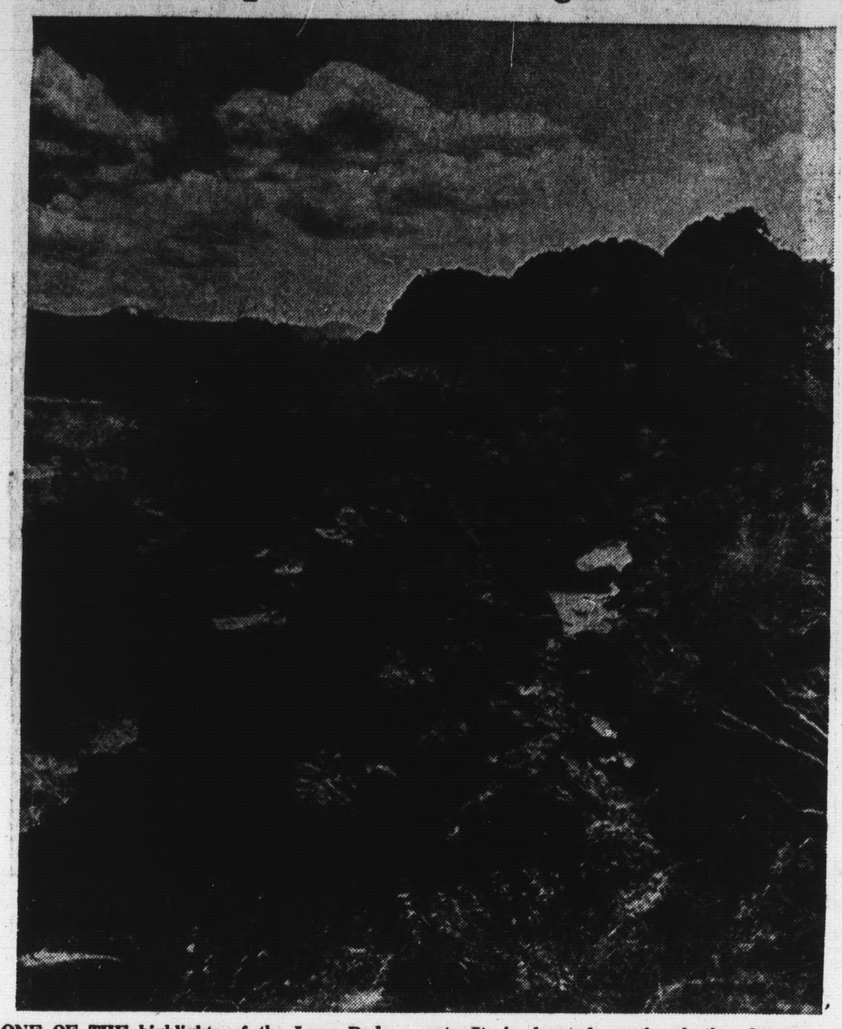
If incorporated in the manufacture of all new cars, he suggests, the safety features could save a million lives in 15 years.

The idea is not a new one and experience raises the question whether the motoring public wants to be protected. Seven years ago, research by Cornell University and an investment of $250,000 by an insurance company produced what was theoretically the safest automobile ever built. So cradled, padded and harnessed were its passengers that the car's designer claimed it could hit a stone wall at 50 miles an hour without harm to them.

The experimental car caught on with neither industry nor public. And there is scant indication that Detroit's attitude has changed any more than that of the motorist who seems to prefer speed and style to safety and who, even when seat belts are provided, seldom bothers to use them.

An automobile designed primarily for safety may be just what is needed to reduce the deplorable highway, too, here in California and the rest of the nation. But after it has been built, will the customers buy it?

Capt. Jack's Stronghold



ONE OF THE highlights of the Lava Beds National Monument is Captain Jack's Stronghold, pictured here, an area of natural trenches formed centuries ago by rivers of molten lavs. The area is named after an Indian renegade who once had his headquarters in the lava beds. The national monument abounds in caves and symbolic Indian art. It is located south of the Oregon-California boundary between U.S. 97 and California State Route 139. The nearest large town is Klamath Falls, Ore., 41 miles to the north. This is another in a series of photos showing parks and historical areas within a day's driving time of the North County. Pacific Parade

A New Posture For the Lady

Don Miller

THE JOURNEY has been long and meandering and it's been fraught with uncertainty and a barrage of conflicting opinions. But now, at last, the destination is apparent.

The journey we speak of is Pacifica's walk down the road of self analysis in an effort to determine just what shape her economic posture should take.

That shape, from all indications, is going to be one of fun and relaxation. For Pacifica believes her future may lie in providing a good time for Bay Area folk and their neighbors.

In other words, receration is to be Pacifica's economic future—commercial recreation, that is—and just about everybody who's been taking the walk with Pacifica agrees.

JUST WHAT sort of future lies in st for the city if it takes up this new posture wa enthusiastically described to Pacifica's merchants last week by a man who runs the successor company to the building empire the late Andy Oddstad founded.

We think C. A. Trifeletti, the head man at Challenge Contracting, hit it right on the old business button when he told the city's chamber of commerce that Pacifica is surrounded by a few million people who would like nothing better than to stream down the new coast freeway, when completed, and enjoy a day on the Pacifica beach.

That isn't possible today because Pacifica's ocean-front land is largely private property and the owners, understandably, aren't waiting with open arms for an army of beachgoers to tramp over their backyards.

Any development of ocean frontage into public recerational areas would have to be preceded by land acquisition— a proposition that could be on the expensive side in these days of California's exploding population and a corresponding shrinkage of the wide, open spaces.

SINCE PACIFICA'S exchequer can't be considered on the bulging side, the prospect of paying for land acquisition and later on for the construction of recreational facilities scares the economic daylights out of most Pacificans.

However, both Trifeletti and Councilman Harold Feyge had soothing words on that score the other day at the chamber meeting.

Trifeletti, who is a member of the city's Shoreline Erosion and Development Committee, and Feyge, a staunch backer of the commercial recreation posture, explained that a raft of governmental agencies are empowered to provide loans.

The only catch in raking in this folding green is that the facilities the city builds must provide a dollar return. In other words, those loans going out must be backed up by the certainty of income coming back in.

One of the sources of income could be rent paid the city by operators who would lease the facilities the city would build. Another could be parking fees, beach use fees and so on which the city could ask directly from the sun worshippers.

WE THINK Trifeletti hit another button right on the noggin when he proposed that the city also consider providing facilities for those days when Pacifica's weather is foggy or cold.

We hadn't heard this kind of proposal before but if you're a realistic Pacifican, you'll have to acknowledge that the city's climate isn't exactly sun-washed 365 days of the year.

That old fog loves to roll in and be chummy with Pacifica during summer months—as it does with most California coastside cities.

If you've been around this Bay Area very long, you know that the sun could be reigning supremely across the Bay Bridge or the Golden Gate, yet the coast could be wrapped up snugly in a thick blanket of fog.

It's the people basking in those sunny areas who decide to head for Pacifica and the beaches they think also will be bathed in sun, that alternate recreational facilities should be available, Trifeletti believes.

Of course, all th optimistic talk about commercial recre ay turn out to be wishful conversatio

As logical as it sems on paper, Pacifica's proposed new posture just might not be practical. And that's something the city hopes to find out at the end of the next six months.

At that time, an engineering firm hired by the city will report on the feasibility—the economic feasibility, that is—of Pacifica scoring a success with recreation as big business.

TRIFELETTI brought up another point in his talk that many Pacificans may have been wondering about when the engineering firm was hired. It was the possibility of a conflict of objectives between the firm's study and a U. S. Army Corps of Engineers survey, now going on.

There isn't any, Trifeletti emphasized. It's the Army engineers' job to find out how to bring a halt to the erosion that's been eating methodically away at the city's shoreline. It's not their job to find out if Pacifica would be comfortable in a recreational posture.

That's the private firm's baby. Then, assuming the whole business is feasible, it will be the city's turn to act.

At that point, one journey for Pacifica will have ended and another one will be rarin' to go. So, all in all, it looks like a lot of traveling is in store for this young lady by the sea.

North County Notebook

Those Suds Are Just Too Super

Ron Bates

HOW MANY of you remember Charlie, the washer repairman with the Brooklyn accent who appeared frequently on television commercials last year to bemoan the fact that oversudsing was causing too much trouble in milady's washing machine?

He isn't around any more and I think I know why. He was undoubtedly raking in some payola from the soap company that was footing the bill for the television commercial.

For he couldn't have been making any money on his repair business by giving out advice on how to keep repairs down. The payola must have stopped and that was the end of Charlie on TV.

Nevertheless, his little television spiel made sense enough and I think that sanitation and city officials may take a lesson from him.

They could use some of his material to alert the public to the fact that milady and her sudsy, sudsy detergents are causing a big headache that may get bigger unless some positive action is taken.

ACCORDING TO the Surgeon General of the United States, Luther Terry, 40 per cent of the nation's population is using water that has been used before for industrial or domestic purposes — some as many as five times before.

The re-used water is quite often contaminated by "hard" detergents.

When the missus takes out the drain plug, her soapy water goes down into the sewer system, sometimes into treatment plants and sometimes not, and then into rivers, streams and bays.

Much of that water seeps through the soil and into underground water supplies that are the primary source of drinking water for cities.

You can imagine the housewife's amazement if she turned on the faucet and—instant suds. Handy for washing dishes but hard on the taste buds.

NOW THIS may be stretching a point in the North County, but if it happens elsewhere (as it has), why not here?

Recent tests have shown that very low concentrations of these "hard" household detergents, when dumped in rivers and lakes, will kill marine life.

A dead trout was found in a creek in Pacifica about two years ago—an apparent victim of water polluted by detergents. That fish disappeared into the never-never land of government investigation, though, and was never heard of again.

More graphic examples of water pollution could be seen across the Bay in Hayward and the Livermore Valley. There were traffic tieups last year as motorists slowed down to view a river perking up suds as high as 15 feet.

It looked like the middle of the winter in New England.

The Water Pollution Board cracked down when it found dead fish strewn along the banks as the result of suds from detergent from householders' cesspools and from municipal sewage plants.

The Board ruled that water flowing into Alameda Creek from any source could not contain more than one pound of suds-making detergent to one million pounds of non-sudsy water.

A SIMILAR problem occurred in Redwood City a few years ago at the city's treatment plant east of the Bayshore Freeway.

Commuters were amazed as they drove along and saw big soap bubbles floating across the highway, breaking against the hood of their car. The next day or so, they noticed paint chipping off their autos.

Redwood City finally came up with a solution by building a series of shower-like pipes that would be turned on whenever the foaming got out of hand.

These detergents are causing problems in the North County, too, but according to Engineer-Manager Bob Bernicchi of the sanitation district, the situation is well in hand.

The chemical composition of these hard detergents traps grease particles and keeps them in suspension.

In the plant, sewage goes into settling tanks where the grease normally floats to the surface and can be scummed off. The soap-trapped grease, however, plays hard to get and after a while is pumped through and sent into the ocean as is.

THE WATER Pollution Control board tapped the district with a "cease and desist" order two years ago because "grease balls" were forming on Thornton Beach.

With the help of our rich Uncle Sam, the district spent almost $400,000 to build a 2500-foot outfall line and the "grease balls" have just about disappeared—at least to the Water Pollution Control Board's satisfaction.

Bernicchi says he is looking forward to the development of LAS-based detergents. I'd tell you what the LAS meant but it would only confuse us both.

Legislation on both the national and state level is putting the squeeze on soap manufacturers to come up with a satisfactory solution.

A law similar to one passed by the West German Parliament in 1961 was introduced to Congress last year by Representative Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.).

Reuss said he had conferred with German officials who stated the law has already resulted in the production of substitute detergents that are as effective as the old type for cleaning purposes, are relatively inexpensive and decompose completely.

At state level, a bill has been introduced by Assemblyman Don Allen Sr.

SO THERE'S hope that we won't wind up all covered with suds. And maybe Charlie's disappearance from the television screen is an omen of things to come.

The disappearing suds that clog the water may disappear from our water too.

How's that for a nice clean column?

That Charm Is Missing

Barbara Bladen

(Barbara Bladen is on vacation. This review is by Jack Russell.)

FOR A RESIDENT of the Bay Area, going to see "The Flower Drum Song" is like eating a baked alaska. You should do it at least once in your life.

Unfortunately, Ben Kapen's Melodyland Theatre, production, whether by choice or necessity, has been forced to curtail the only redeeming feature of the Rodgers and Hammerstein show—the Oriental charm and mysteriousness.

Three-fourths of the cast are Caucasians and although they are hard working and enthusiastic, they fail to deliver the meaning of C. Y. Lee's gentle fable of life on Grant Avenue as it never was or never will be.

The clash of Eastern vs. Western cultures never comes off when all parties are quite obviously and joyfully from the West.

JAMES SHIGETA is the star but the part of the bright young Chinese college student, torn between the ordered ways of the East and the more exciting, raucous ways of the West, is not a taxing one.

Shigeta sings pleasantly and diffidently and focusses most of the stage attention.

The real stars of the musical are the two girls in the youth's life, one the "picture bride," Mei Li, played by Lisa Lu. Her voice was weak but the audience forgave all that because she was so charming and right for the part.

The other, Suzie Kaye is a red-headed chorus girl without a trace of egg foo yung as Linda Low. She is curvy sassy and bubbling, particularly in her famous number "I Enjoy Being a Girl."

THE SCORE and staging are one of the most derivative of all the Rogers and Hammerstein offerings. Bit of the "King and I," "Carousel" and even parts of Loesser's "Guys and Dolls" keep coming back in the tunes and the action.

The dancing was only fair but then dream ballets are probably the most overworked device in musicals and it would be almost impossible for even the City Center Ballet to make one of them meaningful.

The biggest round of applause for the evening went to retiring Chris Callen as the seamstress Helen Chao. Her rendition of "Love Look Away" was a high point of the evening.

The production at the Berekely Auditorium will continue through Sunday night.

Peninsula Panorama

Another Wad Is All Shot

George Whitesell

SOMEWHERE toward the later part of August the Peninsula reaches a sort of turning point at which the people who have returned from vacations outnumber those who are still vacationing or have yet to go.

And, since it is notorious that most vacationers come home broke, this is a time for scratching the bottom of the barrel, cleaning out the deep-freeze and, maybe borrowing a bit of scratch.

It is also a time for sober living and for hashing over the memories of the gourmet meals of vacation while feeding on spaghetti, hamburger and beans.

It says a lot for us that you rarely hear anyone complain about this. We have shot the wad, but there are no regrets.

This is true no matter what sort of vacation we had. Some of us lived like royalty for a few magic days, some of us have done what we thought would be a modest bit of touring, and some of us have camped in what now passes for the wilderness.

A few of us stayed with relatives, but that catches up with us when the relatives come to stay with us.

Anyway you work it you are apt to come back to realities with an aching void in the region of the wallet and, perhaps, a month of unpaid bills.

Somehow, the amount that was budgeted and saved for a vacation is never quite enough.

THERE ARE always extra expenses, a new tire, an unplanned side trip, something the wife "just had to buy," restaurant checks that were uniformly higher than planned, one more day in a hotel or motel, Junior breaking his dental brace in a strange city, and a lot of other costs that weren't figured.

Cash in the pocket disappears speedily, travelers' checks fairly leap out of their neat little folders, and there comes a time when it was lucky someone would cash a personal check.

Some folks even have to wire home for money.

And we haven't, shudder, heard yet from the credit cards.

A sort of stunned austerity is the order of the day and this comes fairly easy since most folks are content to slow down after they get back home.

Too, though it is trite to say so, a lot of us have to rest up from our vacations.

The spectre of "back to school" grows more solid and real every day for the kids and tends to tame them down.

But the best antidote for the vacation "shorts" is remembering all the fun and the pleasure while the memories are still alive and vivid.

THIS REMEMBERING combined with planning for next year's vacation, takes away the sting and is the real reason why we hear little genuine complaint.

There is a feeling, also, that a worthwhile fling was worth paying for and it is better to be a sport about it.

Meanwhile, most of us know that somehow we always manage to make ends meet and that in a short time we will be worrying about Christmas instead of vacation.

When it comes to planning for next year's vacation, however, we are likely to sense the most important part of those plans will be more money than we started with this year.

IT MAY BE a couple of months before we can start hoarding stray dollars for next year, but this is the proper time for good resolutions.

Many people find a separate savings account is the best answer, even if it has to start with pennies in a piggy bank.

Others have all kinds of odd personal systems ranging from placing all their half-dollars in an old sock on the closet shelf to the craziest one we ever heard about—thumbtacking dollars bills to the bedroom ceiling.

The man who does this is a bachelor and he says he just likes to lie in his bed and watch the currency grow. He claims this is a stimulus to saving par excellence.

With any kind of luck it can be done.

However you do it, it has to be done.

But it will never be enough to save you from the "vacation shorts" year after year.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

We certainly appreciated the splendid coverage you gave the recently concluded San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta.

Again this year, new records of attendance were realized in spite of the fact that the show had to be staged without the big Mall of Flowers Building.

This success is certainly due in large measure to the fine cooperation of your newspaper and other newspapers in San Mateo County.

I express the appreciation of both Fair Association Board President St. George Lafitte and General Manager William M. Wilson.

Wm. Crocker Dies; Special Service Set

Funeral services for banker William Crocker of Hillsborough who died at Pebble Beach last week, were held Thursday. A special memorial service is planned for September 8.

He was a leading figure in the Crocker Estate and Provident Security Company, which owns a major portion of San Bruno Mountain and all of the Crocker Industrial Park on Bayshore Boulevard.

The Crocker Land Company is in partnership with Standard Builders in the development of the $220-million community of Serramonte in the southern portion of Daly City,

The memorial service next month, which will honor Crocker as a philanthropist, will be conducted at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

A member of the Crocker First National Bank, then Crocker-Anglo and now Crocker-Citizens, Crocker was a grandson of one of California's "Big Four" — Leland Stanford, Mark Hopkins, Collis P. Huntington and Charles Crocker.

Besides his role in the Crocker Estates, he was a director of Pacific Gas and Electric, Southern Pacific Railways, Del Monte Properties Company, Fireman's Fund Insurance, Pacific Lighting, Pacific Telephone and the Episcopal Church Foundation.

He was also a director of California Pacific Title Insurance, the Bunker Hill Company, Gladding-McBean, Matson Navigation and Metropolitan Life Insurance.

DEATHS

George A. Kneese, Former N. County Official, Dies

Funeral services were held last week for George A. Kneese, 79, who had played a key role in the development of South San Francisco and other San Mateo County cities.

He suffered a heart attack at his home at 737 Oregon Avenue in San Mateo Thursday afternoon and was pronounced dead on arrival at Mills Hospital.

Kneese surveyed and platted the town of South San Francisco and later became its city engineer and superintendent of streets.

He later held the same offices in Daly City, San Bruno, Colma, then known as Lawndale, Hillsborough, Atherton, San Carlos and Belmont.

A native of San Francisco, his father, George W. Kneese, was one of San Francisco's pioneer businessmen who operated a hotel at Green and Battery Streets and moved to South San Francisco in 1891 when the son was six years old.

That year marked the founding of South San Francisco and the opening of the early day Kneese grocery store.

After attending South San Francisco Schools, Kneese studied civil engineering at the University of Claustol in Germany.

He was appointed county surveyor in 1918 and subsequently became surveyor-engineer.

He also engaged in private practice in platting a number of subdivisions around the county.

At one time, he was a member of the advisory board of the old Liberty Bank of Daly City.

He retired around 1932 when he lost in a bid for re-election to his county post.

Kneese was the husband of the late Clara Hatch, sister of Supervisor Alvin Hatch. After her death, he married the late Mrs. Elizabeth Nash Kneese who became county clerk after the death of her first husband.

Kneese was a 50-year member of San Mateo Elks Lodge 1112, was past master and 50-year member of Francis Drake Lodge 376, F. & A.M. of South San Francisco.

He was at one time a member of the Knight Templar Commandery in San Francisco, attained the 32nd degree in the Scottish Rite, was a Noble of Islam Temple of the Shrine in San Francisco, belonged to the Kiwanis Club in Redwood City, Native Sons of the Golden West and the Fraternal Order of Eagles, No. 1473.

He is survived by three sons, George V. Kneese and Walton Kneese, both of San Mateo, and Michael Kneese of Nevada; a daughter, Mrs. Valerie Conklin of Ohio, and one granddaughter.

MAE M. MITCHELL

Funeral services for Mae M. Mitchell of 1671 Sweetwood Drive, in Broadmoor, were held last week by the W. C. Lasswell Chapel in Daly City.

She died in San Francisco at the age of 71.

A native of Arkansas, she lived in the Daly City-Colma area for the past ten years. She was a board member of the Broadmoor Church of the Nazarene.

Survivors include her two sons, George Mitchell and John Skaggs.

Interment was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

ROBERT H. RAYLE

Robert H. Rayle of 373 Niantic Street, Daly City, died last week in his home at the age of 39.

He had lived in Daly City for the past 12 and a half years. He was the husband of Mildred C. Rayle.

The W. C. Lasswell Chapel sent the deceased to Beshler, Ohio, for burial.

ELEANOR R. JOHNSTON

Funeral services for Eleanor R. Johnston of 9 Castillejo Drive, Daly City, were held last week by the W. C. Lasswell Chapel.

She will be buried in her native state of Oklahoma. Survivors include her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Giusti. Mrs. Johnston had lived in Daly City for only a year.

WILLIAM R. FEAR

Former Daly City resident William R. Fear died last week in Guerneville at the age of 64.

He had lived in Daly City at 478 Bellevue Avenue.

A native of England, he lived in California for the past 40 years.

He is survived by his wife, Jean Fear; two sisters, Mrs. Violet Ferguson and Mrs. Florence Solomon, and a brother, Albert Fear.

Funeral services were held by the W. C. Lasswell Chapel in Daly City. Interment was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

ANNE K. McDONNELL

Mrs. Anne K. McDonnell, 65, of 319 Spruce Street, South San Francisco, died last week at Peninsula Hospital after a long illness.

Funeral services were held at Nauman & Lincoln Chapel. Survivors include a son, Francis T. McDonnell of South San Francisco.

Fails to Get Security Job

Undersheriff Wesley A. Pomeroy got word last week that he will not be Barry Goldwater's campaign security chief, after all.

Pomeroy flew to Washington, D.C., at the senator's invitation, to discuss the position. It was reported that the undersheriff was considered for the job because of the impression he made with the special security force at the Republican convention in the Cow Palace.

It was explained that, because secret service men are not available to Senator Goldwater as a presidential candidate, he would need his own security force.

Threats against his life had been reported.

Pomeroy received this telegram from Dean Burch, Goldwater's aide.

"We regret that we have filled security job from another source. Thank you for your trouble."

Mendez Pleads Insanity In Shooting of His Son

William Mendez, 48-year-old South San Francisco merchant seaman, charged with attempting to murder his three-year-old son, has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

The plea was entered last week in Superior Court.

The court appointed two psychiatrists to examine Mendez and their report will be made at 9 a.m. next Wednesday.

The seaman is charged with attempted murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

He has admitted to South San Francisco police that he pumped seven bullets into the body of his son, Paul, because he did not want the child to be returned to his estranged wife.

One of the bullets, according to authorities, missed the boy's heart by one-sixteenth of an inch.

The youngster has been released from Peninsula Hospital and is convalescing.

Garage Chief Named to Post

She is Judy Birkeneder, daughter of Daly City Hostess Ramona Birke of 251 Lakeshire Drive, Daly City.

Judy had contacted her mother by telephone after the operation but because of poor telephone connections, Mrs. Birke was unable to find out where her daughter was and the nature of her condition.

Mrs. Birke said that through the efforts of Congressman J. Arthur Younger, Judy was located and within a few days was sent to Denmark to convalesce under the care of an aunt.

The congregation is currently conducting a building fund drive. B'nai Israel was formerly housed in a building on Los Banos Avenue, which has been razed in connection with the Knowles Street Improvement Project. The congregation is meeting at temporary quarters on its Annie Street property.

Alfred G. Rinkleib of 4 Belmont Drive, Daly City, reported to police last week that thieves had stolen a garbage lid.

Building fund drive workers are now contacting members of the congregation and professional and civic leaders in the area for support of the drive.

Sugar 'n' Spice
By Nell Norton

HOW NICE to be back in the cool, cool fog. I'm afraid a beginning like this still infuriates you gals who have been living in this cool, cool fog for most of the summer and are longing for your vacation in the hot, hot sunshine.

As indicated in my columns, while I was visiting in Kentucky I spent much of my time tasting and testing and enjoying good food and I have lots of recipes to share with you. I'll start off with this one for a delicious molded salad complete with dressing:

APRICOT AND PINEAPPLE SALAD

1 package orange gelatin
¾ cup water
1 cup apricot and pineapple juice (you may add orange juice to make a full cup)
1 can apricots, 303 size, drained
2 cans pineapple, small, drained
¾ cup small marshmallows

Dissolve the gelatin in the hot water, stir well and add the fruit juices. Set aside until it becomes syrupy. Cut the drained appricots into small pieces and add these plus the drained pineapple and the marshmallows to the syrupy gelatin mixture. Then return to the refrigerator to set.

SALAD DRESSING

¼ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons flour
1 egg, small
¼ cup pineapple juice
¼ cup apricot juice
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup whipped cream or thin with mayonnaise

Combine in a saucepan the sugar, flour, egg and juices. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thick. Then add the butter, allow to cool some and then fold in the whipped cream or thin with mayonnaise. Serve over the molded salad.

JUNE BRIDES are now August's homemakers and I've received requests for cooking for two ideas.

Here is an entree that is a favorite with most husbands, whether they are husbands of two months or twenty years:

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

2 double pork chops
½ cup bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
dash pepper
1 teaspoon minced parsley
⅛ teaspoon sage
¼ cup diced apple
3 tablespoons milk

Cut a pocket on the bone side of each chop. (Or better still, ask the butcher to put a pocket in for you.) Combine the next eight ingredients and mix well. Stuff each chop with the bread mixture. Place in a shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about one hour or until tender.

LEMON CAKE PIE

1 cup granulated sugar
1 heaping tablespoon butter or margarine
3 eggs, separated
1 cup water
2 heaping tablespoons flour
juice and grated rind of one lemon
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Blend sugar and buter. Add flour and beaten egg youks. Add water a little at a time, blending well. Add the lemon juice and rind. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into mixture. Place in uncooked pie crust.

Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degree. Bake about 30 minutes, until filling is set and crust is golden brown.

Louanne's Datebook

By Louanne Heath

SATURDAY and Sunday, visitors from all over the Bay Area will be journeying to the Sanchez Adobe in Pacifica to sample what promises to be a delightful potpourri of floral beauty, art, historic romance and a liberal portion of home town talent.

The occasion will be the annual Fuchsia and Art Fiesta presented by the Pacifica Branch of the American Fuchsia Society and the Pacifica Art Guild under the direction of Mrs. Sherri Thomas.

In Mrs. Thomas' words: "A spectacular Fiesta is planned. The location chosen, Sanchez Adobe on Linda Mar boulevard, is one of the oldest historic sites in this area.

"Picture, if you can, this old adobe building with its double balconies hanging with cascading baskets of fuchsias, every color of the rainbow, huge spreading shade trees gracing the grounds that have been adorned with hundreds of fuchsia blooms. Intermingled with nature's handiwork will be an outstanding display of fine art, paintings created by the many well-known artists of the Pacifica Art Guild."

To add authority to Mrs. Thomas' predictions of a memorable weekend, several of the district's most productive organizations here announced that they have joined in the effort to make this fiesta one that will long be remembered. Strolling musicians will play traditional Spanish music, the Pacifica Community Choral singers will perform and the Fifty Plus Club will present several folk dances.

Thirty small children will whirl their way through several Spanish dances, dressed in appropriate costumes. The Pacifica Sweethearts will twirl their batons, Pacifica's Dog Fanciers will perform precise drills.

The American Legion Color Guard will march as will the Cadit Air Patrol. A group, calling themselves the Misfits, and the Flying Eight Balls will engage in combat with model aircraft they have designed and built.

Mrs. Thomas is extremely pleased to report that author and columnist Anita Day Hubbard from San Francisco and The Coast Liners Band from Danville and Almo and the Cuspidors Band from Vallejo will make the trek to Pacifica to participate in the event. Mrs. Hubbard will crown a tiny girl Fuchsia Queen and Theresa Foley, Miss Pacifica, will take part in the coronation ceremony.

Added inducement designed to lure the undecided to Sanchez Adobe will include two awards to be made to lucky contributors to the charity fund. Busy Mrs. Thomas has painted and donated a seascape that will be given away during the fiesta and Claire's House of Pets in Pacifica has provided a toy white poodle for the same purpose.

According to Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Grace McCarthy, Pacifica Vice Mayor, will cut a fuchsia ribbon to open the show Saturday and Edna Laurel Calhan will be mistress of ceremonies. A refreshment booth, to be operated by the Pacifica Lions' Club, will be located nearby.

DONNA GOODALE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodale, of Piedmont, became the bride of Westlake's Gary Wagner at a lovely ceremony in St. Clement's Episcopal Church in the Berkeley Hills earlier this summer.

For the nuptials the bride wore a gown of white poi d'soui with a bodice and train of delicate lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Wagner, who will graduate from the University of California at the end of the fall semester, selected Len Jacobsen with whom he attended Westmoor High School and U.C., to serve as his best man. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wagner of Colma and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wagner of Westlake. He is the brother of Marilyn and Diane Wagner.

Journeying to this area to attend the wedding were young Wagner's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thor Peterson of Santa Rosa, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Battle of Modesto, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hornback of Concord. Mrs. Battle and Mrs. Hornback are aunts of the benedict.

The couple honeymooned in Carmel and are now making their home at 84 Yosemite avenue in Berekely.

Following the wedding, the groom's parents departed for a trip that carried them over 7,500 miles of highway in this country and in Canada. The Wagners visited Niagara Falls, the New York World's Fair, Washington, D.C., and other points of interest.

Mrs. Sylvia Steinbach the new Grand Regent of Court St. Mary 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, has announced that her officers and committee chairmen will meet tomorrow evening in the home of Mrs. Maurice Clark to draw up plans for this year's program of activities and to make initial plans for the court's annual birthday celebration to be held sometime next month.

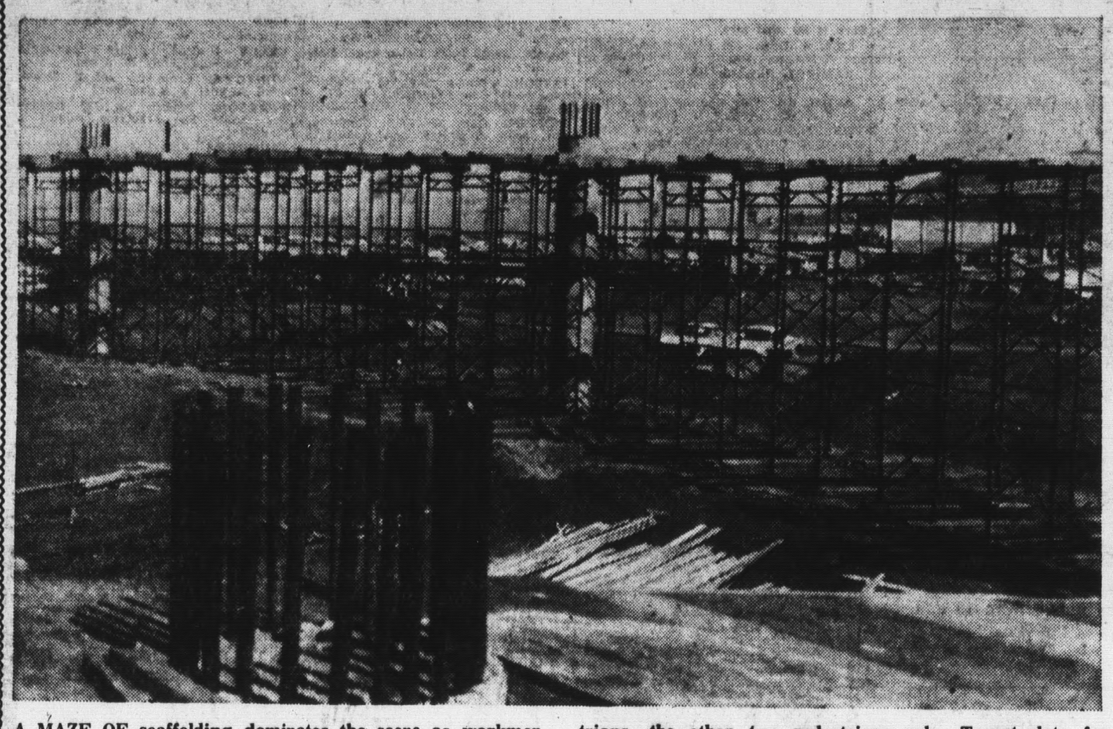
Pedestrian Overpass Going Up



A MAZE OF scaffolding dominates the scene as workmen construct a pedestrian overpass south of Avalon Street, one of six bridge projects involved in Pacifica's new freeway. Four of the bridges will carry autos and pedestrians, the other two pedestrians only. Target date for completion of the freeway has now been set for early January of next year. (Post-Times Photo)

Pacifica Freeway Is 70% Completed

Unlike the hardy mailman, the construction engineer finds rainy weather a definite hindrance to his work, reminds Pacifica's freeway project engineer Dino Casinelli.

Due to rain and a general increase in work, completion of the new coastal Cabrillo Freeway will overshoot its original target date of August, 1964, by at least five months. Casinelli noted:

"The extended completion date has been set at January 12, 1965, providing the weather permits steady construction activity.

"If we have much rain, which is more than likely, the freeway probably will not be completely finished until February or March."

The $4,250,000 freeway will dart 3.3 miles down the coast from the present Edgemar freeway to the Vallemar area of Pacifica. According to Casinelli, about 70 per cent of the job is completed.

"The freeway will be augmented by six bridges, which also are about 70 per cent complete," he added. These includes two pedestrian bridges, one over and one under the freeway.

Although work on frontage roads on both sides of the freeway is still in progress, Casinelli points out that some of the roads are far enough along to be used as detours for traffic barred from the main construction route.

Meanwhile work on widening Cabrillo Highway from the end of the freeway in Vallemar to Linda Mar is progressing nicely, according to Mel Davis, assistant city manager for Pacifica.

He predicted that the widening, from two to four lanes, will be finished in January.

Sewage Unit Will Expand And Contract

The North San Mateo County Sanitation district will expand and contract in several different directions as a result of actions taken by the board of directors.

One expansion will take in the 1,000-acre Serramonte development in the southern part of Daly City.

The move had been held up pending negotiations with Suburban Realty, developers of Serramonte, on sewage charges and connection fees.

Under a unique agreement, the district will build the necessary sewage lines by using future income for the next five years. No cash will come out of the district's funds.

Suburban will construct the lines and make the connections. Half of a $50 connection fee will be credited to the district's payment for constructing the line.

The district will contract with the formal execution of an agreement to shed the Westborough area.

A land trade negotiated between Daly City and Pacifica earlier this year will cause a balanced contraction and expansion of the district's boundaries in the southeast section.

The formal petitions were authorized and will be sent to the County's Local Agency Formation Committion.

In other action the board of directors:

Authorized Engineer-Manager Robert Bernicchi to make a study of sewage charges for the older section of Daly City where apartments are replacing single family homes at a fast pace.

Authorized Bernicchi to set up a new organizational system for employes and their duties.

Awarded a $48,450 contract to H. F. Lauritzen of Antioch for the installation of additional anchorage for the district's outfall line on Thornton Beach. The anchorage will be installed by a method using explosive charges to embed anchor lines in the ocean floor.

Was informed that the district will be inspected as part of a study by the State Health Department.

Doelger Buys Coast Ranch

Henry Doelger Builder Incorporated last week expanded its property on the coastside with the purchase of the Skelly Ranch in Moss Beach for an estimated price of $1,400,000.

The ranch adjoins previous property purchased by Doelger and being used now for residential use.

A Doelger spokesman said the new property would be used for residential development on the Coastside.

The Boom in Apartments

Sewer District Takes a Look

Officials of the North San Mateo Sanitation District are taking a close look at Daly City's record breaking apartment construction activity and are seeing dollar signs.

Dist. Engr.-Mgr. Robert Bernicchi said that apartments are being constructed on lots, particularly in the older section of Daly City, where single family houses used to stand.

And the developers are paying only a dollar for connecting sewers to the district's mains.

Usually, the district charges anywhere from $25 to $50 when homes in areas being annexed to the district are connected for the first time.

Once the home has been connected there is only a minimal charge of a dollar for hooking up a sewer line again.

Apartments, however, contribute more to the sewage load of the district and Bernicchi believes the developers are getting virtually a free ride on the charges.

The board asked Richard Aberley of Brown and Caldwell, consulting engineers, to study the situation and make a report within a month.

The district is considering a change in the present ordinance governing the charge because of its impending annexation of Serramonte.

Record Pace in D.C. Continues

Apartment house construction in Daly City continued its record-breaking way through July, according to statistics from the Daly City Building Inspector's office.

Eight permits for apartment buildings were issued last month. The eight buildings will cost an estimated $680,000 and will contain a total of 85 units.

July's activity brought the total since the beginning of the year to 68 buildings with 707 units. This construction has cost or will cost a total of approximately $4,268,790.

Last year at this time, only nine apartment buildings were constructed with a total of 180 units.

During July of this year, a total of 69 permits for all types of new building were issued with the cost of construction estimated at $1,212, 860.

This brought the year's total so far to 597 permits and cumulative estimated cost of construction to $8,520,780, more than half of this accounted for by apartment house construction.

Last year in July, 67 permits were issued with an estimated cost of construction set at $673,-958. The cumulative total at that time was 566 permits and an estimated cost of construction of $4,448,093.

BETTER BUSINESS

Furnace Repair Racket Explained

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, Better Business Bureau "Barometer"

The Vast Majority of local firms in the furnace servicing field deal fairly with the public but a small group of heating gyp artists yearly fleece the American public out of millions of dollars.

The elderly are particularly vulnerable to the furnace repair racket.

The widow who scares easy, the easy mark who does not read but will sign anything that comes along, the retired couple living on their small life savings—all are exploited despite the fact that the Better Business Bureau issues warnings after warning regarding such gyp operators.

The gullible houseowner is often high-pressured by "scare tactics" into signing contracts he often does not understand.

In spite of state court action and Federal Trade Commission orders, the gyp activity will never be eliminated until the public finally realizes that a heating contractor with business ethics and a personal sense of responsibility will not use scare-selling tactics to create new business.

The gyp's high-pressure methods are similar across the United States. The Grand Jury in San Francisco recently indicted two furnace salesmen accused of trying to make a big improvement in their sales pitch by posing as "city furnace inspectors."

The salesman had called at the prospective customer's door, offering a free inspection. Once inside it was the usual pitch.

The inspection revealed the furnace needed cleaning at a bargain rate of $24.50. It was then discovered that the entire heating system was defective and leaking "lethal gas."

Another bargain was offered —this time a new furnace for $903. Investigation showed the new furnace to be worth $159.

The "free heating survey" began after World War II. Legitimate and qualified heating contractors rang doorbells offering "free heating surveys" that would show whether the heating plant needed repairs, replacement or modernization.

The "suede shoe boys," with their dubious talents for fleecing the public, quickly moved into the heating field, using the ruse of soliciting cleaning jobs to gain access to homes.

There is little or no variation of technique once the suede shoe boys gain access to the home.

Such firms have been known to tear down furnaces and then summon the homeowner and falsely claim the furnace to be cracked and in a dangerous condition.

The home owner is often high-pressured into a new furnace installation because of the scare tactics used by the gyp artists.

The occupants of the house are fearful that they face certain death from carbon monoxide poisoning and sign contracts they do not fully understand.

The Better Business Bureau recommends that homeowners protect themselves against the racket by following these common-sense rules:

1. Establish contact with a dealer of known reliability, avoiding firms that use high-pressure sales tactics or "bait" advertising of furnace repairs and service. If in doubt, check with your local Better Business Bureau.

2. Have the servicing done when the furnace is not needed to avoid making hasty decisions later on. In purchasing a new furnace, secure competitive bids and be wary of unusually low bids.

3. Request the credentials of anyone who represents himself as a "furnace inspector." Government and civic authorities will carry complete identification.

4. Seek corroboration by a qualified heating engineer of any claims that your furnace is beyond repair.

5. Read and understand thoroughly all contracts before signing and secure all guarantees and service warranties in writing.

Westlake Mall to Host Style Show

A look at what teen-agers and collegians will be wearing when they troop back to classes next month will be provided patrons of the Westlake Shopping Center Saturday.

Starting at 1 p.m., merchants will present a "Back to School" fashion show geared to the style tastes of the younger generation. The show will be presented in the center's mall and will be open free to shoppers.

A New Filling For Home Cooks

HOME COOKS of the short-order variety may be interested in a new packaged product—lime-flavored pie filling.

One of the helpers in our test kitchen tried this new preparation at home, using two packages of the lime-flavored filling for a generous 10-inch pie. The three little boys in the family gobbled up the dessert; Daddy (just home from the hospital) and Big Sister (just out of her teens) also enjoyed it.

In our own test kitchen we used the pie filling in a Lime Raspberry Parfait. Such a pretty combination it made—snowy-green layers laced with garnet!

LIME RASPBERRY PARFAIT

- 1 package (3½ ounces) lime-flavored pie filling
- ½ cup sugar
- 2½ cups cold water
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Turn the pie filling into a saucepan; stir in ¼ cup of the sugar. Gradually stir in the cold water and the slightly beaten egg yolks, keeping smooth. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until mixture just starts to boil. If the flavor capsule is undissolved, break it with the mixing spoon and stir to blend. Cool slightly.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in the remaining ¼-cup sugar; continue to beat until very stiff. Fold into cooled pie-filling mixture.

Drain syrup from thawed raspberries. Turn the corn starch into a small saucepan stir in a little of the raspberry syrup, keeping smooth; stir in remaining raspberry syrup. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and clear. Cool slightly; fold in drained raspberries.

Spoon about half of the cooled pie-filling mixture into 8 parfait glasses (¾-cup size); add over half of the raspberry mixture. Spoon remaining pie-filling mixture over raspberry layer; top with remaining raspberry mixture. Chill one hour before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Boy Scouts at the National Jamboree in Valley Forge used 100 freight carloads of foodstuffs, including 600,000 quarts of milk, and 25,000 quarts of ice cream.

Try Bat Boy Burgers for A Home Run

A Little League baseball game has been aptly defined as a father's nervous breakdown divided into seven innings! While Dad is shouting himself hoarse in the bleachers, Mother is home praying and preparing a hearty post-game meal for hungry players and fans. Naturally, the big favorite with everyone, from second baseman to the smallest one out in left field, is hamburgers.

In a new recipe developed in test kitchens and appropriately named Bat-Boy Burgers, ground beef is mixed with fine dry bread crumbs and milk. The addition of an envelope of Hamburger Seasoning gives a zesty, exciting flavor and makes the burgers puffier and juicier.

Provide a delicious homemade relish (call it Home-Run Relish for the right atmosphere) to top the burgers and you'll really serve up a hit. The relish combines prepared mustard, catchup, and pickle relish with chopped celery, onion, green pepper, and radishes.

To round out the menu, serve the juicy Bat-Boy Burgers with scalloped potatoes, carrot sticks, sliced tomatoes, fresh fruit, and, of course, milk and cookies. The scalloped potatoes are made the easy way—from a box of the instant variety.

Raisin Drop Cookies are delightfully spiced with cinnamon, nutmeg, and cloves, and are chock full of raisins. The recipe below makes 5 dozen cookies, which should be enough to keep the whole team happy.

Here are the recipes:

BAT-BOY BURGERS

- 1 envelope from package of Hamburger Seasoning
- ½ cup milk
- ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 pound ground beef
- 8 hamburger buns, split, toasted, and buttered

Combine in a mixing bowl the hamburger seasoning, milk, dry bread crumbs, and ground beef. Divide into 8 portions. Flatten each portion into a thin patty. Place on an oiled broiler pan about 4 inches from source of heat. Broil about 4 minutes on each side, or pan fry in a skillet or on an electric griddle. Serve burgers between toasted buns. Pass Home-Run Relish for the buns. Makes 4 servings.

HOME-RUN RELISH

- ¼ cup Prepared Mustard
- ¼ cup catchup
- 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon Celery Seed
- ½ teaspoon Seasoning Salt
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 small green pepper, diced
- 8 to 10 radishes, chopped

In a small bowl, combine the mustard, catchup, sweet pickle relish, sugar, celery seed, and seasoning salt. Add celery, onion, green pepper, and radishes. Makes about 2½ cups.

RAISIN DROP COOKIES

- 2 cups seedless raisins
- 1½ cups water
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 cup vegetable shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 eggs
- 3½ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- 1 cup (quick-cooked) rolled oats
- 1 apple, unpeeled, finely diced
- 1 teapoon baking powder

Put raisins and water in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 5 minutes. Drain; reserve ¾ cup of this liquid for use in batter. Cool liquid and raisins. Cream together sugar, shortening, and vanilla. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift together measured flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, and cloves. Add this mixture alternately with the ¾ cup raisin water. Add the rolled oats, raisins, and diced apple. Chill dough several hours. Drop by teaspoonfuls, about 2 inches apart, on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a 375 degree oven 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 5 dozen 3-inch cookies.

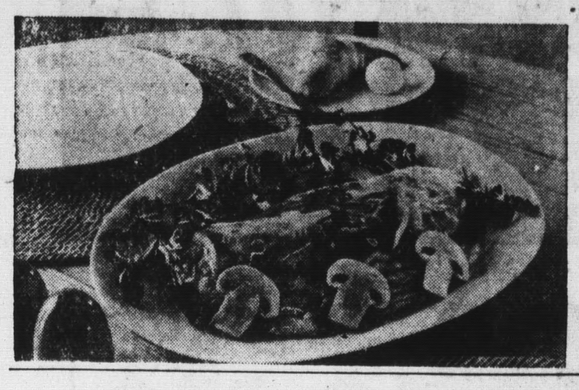
Here's 'Perfect' Mushroom Omelet



Almost anyone can make a good omelet but the "perfect" omelet, one that looks as though a master chef had prepared it, is the result of experience and a few simple tricks. The Borden Company's home economists have outlined the steps for making the "perfect" omelet. using the company's new Instant Omelet Mixes. These come in four varieties—Mushroom, Ham, Western and Cheese.

The secret of good egg cookery is moderate to low heat. Heat the frying pan slowly until a drop of water sizzles and evaporates. Add butter or margarine until it sizzles. Pour the instant omelet mix into the pan. The Mushroom Omelet Mix has all the ingredients necessary for the "perfect" Mushroom omelet.

Slip a spatula under the edge and lift up the cooked portion, tipping the pan so the uncooked part flows under and cooks quickly. The omelet is done when the mixture no longer runs freely.

Another secret is in the folding; hold frying pan over dish. Fold 1/3 of omelet toward the center; rotate the pan to an angle where, as the omelet slips onto the plate, a quick flip of the wrist will shake the folded section over the one sliding onto the plate. Since an omelet continues to cook for a short time after removal from the pan, be sure not to overcook it to a dry stage before folding.

A Perfect Food for Outings

In summertime, we all head outdoors—the country—the beach—or just the patio or back porch. Modern convenience foods really come in handy at this time.

One product that is especially good for fishing, motoring or camping trips, where no refrigeration is available, is Cremora. This powdered non-dairy product can be used just as it comes from the jar to lighten coffee, tea or cocoa.

It is a blend of corn syrup solids, vegetable fats and preservatives. The lightener is just as handy a product to keep on your pantry shelf as it is for away-from-home use.

For hot beverages, sprinkle the desired amount on your coffee or tea and stir. If you are serving iced coffee, blend Cremora with the hot brew before pouring over the ice cubes. Or, if you prefer, reconstitute the powdered product by mixing two parts of hot water with one part of the new convenience product and chill. Then serve it with iced coffee.

When reconstituted, it has the consistency and flavor of light cream and can be used on fresh fruit or cereal if desired.

Many Uses For Steel in New Homes

Recent developments in the use of steel for residential construction have been so numerous that few people are aware of the many ways in which new types of this metal are being use dto speed construction and help produce minimum-maintenance homes.

Steel first made its way into residential construction in the form of nails. Modern steels are bringing benefits to all the "three F's" of home construction: foundation, frame and finish. Today there are few places in a house where steel is not at home.

The one-day foundation is one of steel's many time-saving innovations. where the excavation and pouring of conventional concrete foundation walls is costly and can be delayed by rain or cold, a foundation of steel beams may be bolted in place in almost any weather. Steel posts are set in corner holes, concrete poured around them and beams fastened to the posts.

A firmly anchored steel foundation also transforms difficult, or even "impossible" building sites into choice locations. With a steel base and cantilever structure anchored to the side of a steep slope, a lot that would normally please only a mountain goat can hold a house with a breath-taking view. Also, soft ground and beach sites, once ruled out for permanent homes, offer few obstacles when you build with steel firmly anchored deep in the sand.

Steel beams and columns in the frame of a home on any site minimize the possibility that the house will ever acquire the "sags." Not only are structural steel columns available in the conventional "H" shape, but also in square, round, rectangular and oval. Frequently they are left uncovered and blended by painting them into the decor of a room. The strength of steel beams permits long expanses of unbroken space for living rooms and playrooms which are much in vogue today.

Inside and outside walls of steel and steel doors are no longer a novelty. Steel doors and wall panels are now available in many styles, colors, coatings and sizes, especially designed for use in the home. Walls are unlikely to crack when materials are fastened to a new kind of nailable galvanized steel stud.

Steel Siding

Residential siding in dent-resistant steel is now on the market. Shaped like conventional wooden clapboard, it is made of corrosion-resisting galvanized light-gauge sheet steel, coated at the factory with plastic paints in many different pastel colors.

Because it has a low co-efficient of expansion and contraction, steel stays put when used for heating and air conditioning ducts as well as siding. Steel acoustical ceilings also add silence to a playroom.

The economy of corrosion-resistant galvanized steel has made it a favorite for gutters and downspouts. Their life span may now be increased indefinitely by painting them with zinc dust base paint.

The once simple nail which marked steel's debut into the housing field has advanced to the point where entire catalogues are required to list and describe its tremendous variety. Nails are no longer merely round. There are square nails, spiral nails, grooved nails, nails with two heads and nails without heads. And they all come in a multitude of sizes.

In additional to permanence, steel building components have the advantage of precision manufacture. And termites get nowhere with them.

Quick Strategy

Pat the contents of a can (15½ ounches) of corned beef hash in an 8-inch pie pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 minutes. Serve in wedge-shaped pieces with creamed peas and mshrooms.

Hyatt Music Theater and Banquet Room—Sept. 15

THE HYATT HOUSE in Burlingame is buzzing with excitement. Of course, the main event is the grand opening of the Hyatt Music Theater which will preem on Saturday evening, September 15, a gala "black tie" affair. Tickets for the first night of "Flower Drum Song" are sponsored by the Hillsborough Family Services Organization and are $5, $12.50 and $25. It's for a charitable cause—to help needy families. A champagne party is scheduled for after the performance. If you wish to attend, that is, as long as there are tickets available, contact Mrs. Bisho (342-2916).

Ed Sullivan

In addition to the Hyatt Music Theater grand opening, General Manager Ed Sullivan will also display his new banquet room which will seat up to 450 persons. An additional bar and cocktail lounge, also a piano bar, will be presented in the "Backstage Room."

The Hyatt Music Theater is a big step in the entertainment field for folks on the Peninsula. Everyone should make it their duty to get behind this project and make it a success.

SWINGING CAROL SLOANE, who claims she's not a jazz singer, but has been hailed across the country as successor to such greats as Billie Holiday and Ella Fitzgerald, is now in her third week at San Francisco's famous hungry i. A hit at the Newport Jazz Festival, New York night spots, and on the Arthur Godfrey radio show and the Today and Tonight TV shows, this fine song stylist is playing her first engagement on the West Coast. . . . Jimmy Pederson at the piano and organ is the Wednesday through Sunday musical feature at the swank South San Francisco Brentwood Lodge. . . . Restaurant service is available at the Cafe El Portal until 2 a.m. There is also dancing nightly to the Playboys Orchestra. . . . Enjoy "ye good ol' days" strip dancing? The "art" is still available at the 150 Mason Street Chez Paree. Never a dull moment here—something "stripping" every minute. . . . Atherton Club bartender, Robbie Robinson, has a Lyndon Johnson and a Barry Goldwater sticker on his car bumper. When asked why he was plugging both candidates he remarked that it kept the bumper of his car from rusting.

Carol Sloane

JEAN DRECHSLER, new manager of the Millbrae Blue Peacock restaurant, is no newcomer to the restaurant business—having been at the helm of the Oakland International Airport restaurant, Ivy House in San Francisco, Durant Hotel in Berkeley, the Peach Tree and Rockefeller Plaza French restaurant in New York. Business at the Blue Peacock has been on the upgrade since this genial host took over . . . For those summer days: The Villa Chartier and Lanai are both airconditioned, which adds to the enjoyment of dining at these famous and popular restaurants. The Villa Chartier is famous for delicious ice cold salads for luncheon. The $1.95 luncheon plate (fresh chicken salad with fruit mold, richly garnished) includes soup, beverage and dessert, a la Summer Plate. The Villa Chartier special, Crab Legs Louie, with asparagus tips, ripe tomatoes, Pico Ranch eggs and their famous Louie dressing, is a seafood delight for only $2.50. The luncheon menu changes daily. . .

THE STANDELLS, currently appearing at the Peppermint Tree in S. F. following six-straight months at P. J.'s (replaced Trini Lopez with jam-packed success) will be seen in the forthcoming MGM release "Watusi A Go Go" with Stan Getz and Nancy Sinatra. Managed by Seymour Heller (who also has Mort Sahl and Liberace). The Standells will be featured this weekend on the nationwide telecast of Dick Clark's "American Bandstand." . . . Britta Tonini, Princeton Inn keeper, decided to take a vacation—and did. She went to the Edgewater Inn over in Marin County and slept for three days. "That story about Rip Van Winkle might have some truth to it," confided Britta Tuesday eve." . . . Sing-along entertainment to the Blasters Banjo Band is the Friday and Saturday night fun-fest at San Mateo Big Al's Gashouse. There's action every night here, plus pizza and suds for the hungry and thirsty ones . . . For a luncheon treat to remember, stop in the Charm Garden restaurant. Food, decor and hospitality are most enjoyable . . .

Tony Valentine

THE GARY LONG TRIO is now playing for Friday and Saturday night dancing at the South San Francisco Holiday Inn. Owners Fred and Jerry Rapp announced the opening of a new banquet room (seats up to 225 persons) which will be ready for reservations the first part of September. It will be fully equipped with sound systems for meetings, dinners and receptions . . . Palatable treat in the St. Francis Hotel Cafe Medallion: Baked Baby Lobster Tails, drawn butter and mushroom rice, served with a lemon wedge . . . The Monday night swim contest at the Catch XIII is well worth eyeing. Dancing here Friday and Saturday nights. Between sets, enjoy pizza and beer of your choice . . . Bertolucci's is centered in the heart of the industrial area. Those sharp-looking young ladies who make this their cocktail hour stop are secretaries from nearby offices. Old country Italian food is served at its best for luncheon and dinner .

Gary Long

JACK HOLDER, "UNCLE JOHN" of the Millbrae, Palo Alto, Santa Clara, and San Jose Uncle John's Pancake franchises, makes a personal inspection tour of all the locations each day to oversee the restaurant operations. . . . One of my all-time favorite tunes, "Paper Doll," is vocaled to perfection by the Mills Brothers in the Fairmont Hotel Venetian Room, these evenings. . . . A popular dessert special awaits you at George Mardikian's Omar Khayyam's restaurant: Armenian coffee and Paklava, a 56-layer pastry filled with ground walnuts and honey syrup, with the lingering flavor of Ambrosia. . . . There's double restaurant action at Nick's in Pacifica since Nick added the new Turtle restaurant to the seashore scene. It's located just across the street from Nick's. . . . Enrico Romano's pizza fame may spread to the San Jose area. Understand the "king" has been eyeing sites which could be converted into a pizza place and Italian restaurant. Anything can happen with this gent—and usually does.

Barney's 'Off

There have been many phone calls asking if Barney's Casino will run a Greyhound Bus service to Lake Tahoe over Labor Day and the answer is YES! The schedule will be the same, except on Friday night, September 3, and Saturday night, September 4, the departures will be one hour later than usual. The regular schedule will be resumed on Sunday, Sept. 5, and over Labor Day.

Belated congrats to Ron Giannotti of the Surf House and his lovely Mrs. on the birth of a baby boy, who weighed in at a whopping nine pounds, 11 ounces.

Upper section of the Surf house is being built into a private banquet room which will accent a south sea atmosphere and a real lagoon background.

Score still another unusual sensation for Finocchio's in San Francisco. This time it's a gown so striking that it makes whole audiences gasp in admiration. It's worn by Al St. Claire, the singing star, and was created by his fellow female impersonator, dancer Juan Jose.

Bruno Scatena's Joe's of Westlake restaurant kinda reminds me of a restaurant "oasis," situated in the heart of one of the fastest-growing communities in the Bay Area. If stands out like a beacon light on a clear night and never lacks for customers—from Sunday breakfast to Saturday night dinner.

Frank Dennison, general manager of the plush Sheraton Villa Motor Inn, is off on a well-deserved vacation in Yosemite. When he returns, he will undoubtedly have many new ideas for the hotel and restaurant operation.

Fast-quipping Lew Lehr, the Marina steak guy and avid golfer, claims he met a girl so dumb she thought Band-aid was a charity organization for musicians.

Keith Williamson has started a "food rush" at his Burlingame restaurant since adding a $1.49 steak dinner to his already budget-treat menu.

By the way, this being Friday, you will find Pineapple Upside Down Cake on the dessert list (also available for take out).

Vince Licata to Have Opening Party—Sept. 9

AMAZING VINCE LICATA of Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant continues to add new "looks" to his El Camino Real acres. Next to preview, about September 9, is the new, enlarged cocktail lounge which Vince says is three times the size of the old one. A sparkling, carpeted dining room is another eye catcher, and is now being used. However, there will be some more changes made here during the vacation days which will start Saturday, August 22. Something this restaurant has always needed, namely a banquet room (seats up to 50 persons), will also be available for reservations Monday through Thursday. In order to eliminate waiting for a table, the banquet room will be used for luncheon and dinner customers on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Wednesday, September 9, is an ideal date for the opening occasion because it will mark the 19th anniversary of Vince's restaurant and Vince Licata's birthday. Said Vince, "When I went to school I looked forward to my birthday because it meant a day off. But now it looks like my "day off" will be just a memory this September 9." Vince's next-door Delicatessen and Fish Depot will also make it's official bow to the public, even though it's been serving the public for over a month. Plan to attend the Licata "holiday" on September 9. Vince and family deserve well wishes for presenting a "Fisherman's Wharf" on El Camino Real.

Phil Lehr Solves Steak Problem

Someone asked Phil Lehr how he thought of his Pay-By-Ounce Steakery idea. Phil's reply, "It was simple. I asked myself, why pay for a steak you don't eat all of?" So he opened his downtown Steakery, where steaks are cut to order, any size, with weight determining the price of your complete dinner. Simple, eh what?

Raisin Sauce Is Perfect for Sundae

Whether served hot or cold this rich raisin sauce adds a touch of elegance to ice cream sundaes. Served on slices of angel food cake it makes a festive dessert. Plump California raisins coarsely chopped to release their marvelous flavor enhance the sweet rich butter and whipping cream sauce. Equal parts of corn syrup and sugar keep it smooth and glossy.

This raisin dessert sauce is ideal for summer food plans—it's easily made ahead of time and may be stored in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Raisin Butterscotch Sauce

½ cup California seedless raisins
1 cup sugar
1 cup corn syrup
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon maple flavoring (optional)
1 cup whipping cream

Chop raisins coarsely. Combine sugar and syrup. Cook over boiling water stirring now and then, until sugar dissolves. Blend in butter, salt, flavoring and cream. Continue cooking until thick and syrupy, about 20 minutes. Add raisins for last 5 minutes of cooking. Serve over ice cream. Makes about 2½ cups.

A Party Note— Cheese With Veal

When you add a pizza-like flavor to veal, exciting things can happen! A mild, delicately flavored meat takes on enough zesty, spicy flavor to become a party favorite with a young age group.

Veal Parmesan is easy to prepare for a party because it's breaded, browned and baked in the oven, thus leaving the hostess free for other last minute preparations.

This cut of meat is similar in appearance to beef round steak except that it's smaller and the color is pinkish gray, says meat expert, Reba Staggs.

A party menu could include Honeydew Melon, the Veal Parmesan, Lattice Potatoes, Herb-Buttered Peas, Tossed Salad, French Bread and Blueberry Crisp for dessert.

VEAL PARMESAN

2 pounds veal round steak, cut ½-inch thick
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 slices Mozzarella cheese, 2½x3½x⅛ inches
1 envelope (1½ ounces) Spaghetti Sauce Mix
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Cut veal round steak into 6 servings. Combin e g g, milk and salt. Combine crumbs and 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Dip meat into egg mixture then in crumb mixture. Brown in lard or drippings. Place meat in a 13x9-inch baking pan Top each piece of meat with a slice of Mozzarella cheese. Blend Spaghetti Sauce Mix, tomato paste and water in a saucepan. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Pour sauce over meat and cheese. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese over sauce. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 45 to 60 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

BLACKIE WORKS AT SHOP

LOUISVILLE—The "foreman" at E. J. McGinnis' auto shop is something special.

Strapped to his back is an order pad and pencil for the convenience of customers. And that is not all that Blackie, a cocker spaniel, does.

He'll trot to the grocery with coins that McGinnis puts in a shopping bag and return with hamburger or liver in the bag.

When McGinnis goes to the bank, Blackie gets the parking lot ticket and carries it in his teeth to his master. Quite often, he takes the deposit bag to the teller.

The mascot showed up seven years ago as a stray.

Diet Breakfast For Teen Brides

A well-balanced, weight-reduction cereal and milk breakfast of orange juice, breakfast cereal, nonfat milk, enriched bread and butter takes about 15 minutes to prepare.

If you are a teen-age bride, no doubt you are striving to serve your husband an adequate breakfast. But are you aware of your own needs? Nutritionists at the United States Department of Agriculture have reported that young married girls often say they have no time to eat or they are dieting.

Both excuses are really poor ones. If time is limited in the morning, start breakfast the night before. Set the table. Do as much preparation of the menu as you can. Store perishables in refrigerator overnight. In 15 minutes, you can have breakfast ready in the morning.

If you are trying to lose weight, here's evidence that breakfast skipping is no answer. Scientific research at the State University of Iowa has demonstrated that the omission of breakfast is no advantage in a weight-reduction regimen provided the total number of calories for the day remains the same. In fact, it is a disadvantage in that those who omit breakfast not only accentuate their hunger but also suffer a significant loss of efficiency in the late morning hours.

Instead try this moderate weight-reduction breakfast of 400 calories planned around a basic cereal and milk breakfast pattern—such a breakfast provides one-fourth of the daily caloric requirement and protein allowance, with no less than 15 grams of protein: ½ cup orange juice; cereal, 1 ounce, dry weight; 1 cup nonfat milk for cereal and beverage; 1 teaspoon sugar; 2 slices enriched bread with 1 teaspoon butter.

There is no better time than this September, Better Breakfast Month, to establish sensible breakfast habits for yourself and husband.

Zesty Salad Mold Is Taste Tempter

Better than ever before are molded salads prepared with the new salad gelatin available in celery or mixed vegetable flavor. To create a wide variety of tempting salads, combine this versatile gelatin with raw or cooked vegetables, cottage cheese, meat, or sea food.

Cottage Cheese and Green Pepper Salad

- 2 packages (3 oz. each) celery flavor salad gelatin
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1½ cups cold water
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 cups (1 pt.) cottage cheese
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- ½ cup diced celery
- 1½ teaspoons grated onion
- Dash of pepper
- Dash of Tabasco sauce

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add cold water and vinegar. Pour 1½ cups into 2-quart ring or individual molds. Chill until set, but not firm.

Meanwhile, stir remaining ingredients into remaining gelatin. Chill until slightly thickened. Spoon over almost-firm gelatin. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. If desired, place carrot sticks in center of salad and serve with mayonnaise. Makes about 2 quarts or 8 to 10 main-dish salad servings.

Grapes Can Make A Delectable Pie

A crust that's melting and tender, a filling that's full of old-fashioned goodness — that's the description that fits Grape Pie.

Deep blue, almost black Concord grapes are abundant at this time of year. When their mouth-watering qualities are wrapped in this double crust pie, you have a delicious as well as novel dessert.

Flaky, tender pastry is easy to achieve, says home economist Reba Staggs, when lard is used. Even when taken directly from the refrigerator, lard mixes readily with flour and salt, so excessive handling of the ingredients is not essential.

GRAPE PIE PASTRY

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ to ¾ cup lard
- 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Mix flour and salt. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Add cold water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Use as little water as possible. Divide pastry in half. Roll half about ⅛ inch thickness and line a 9-inch pie pan.

GRAPE FILLING

- 2 pounds Concord grapes
- ¾ cup sugar
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Separate skins and pulp of grapes. Cook pulp 5 minutes or until softened. Put through sieve to remove seeds. Add pulp to skins. Mix sugar and flour together. Add to grapes. Stir in lemon juice.

Pour Grape Filling into pastry-lined 9-inch pie pan. Roll remaining pastry, making several gashes to allow for escape of steam. Place over filling. Crimp edges. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) 35 to 40 minutes.

A Chocolate Vein Cake Is A Favorite

One of our favorite inventions!

CHOCOLATE VEIN CAKE

- 1 cup sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 large egg
- ½ cup commercial sour cream
- ⅓ cup finely chopped pecans
- ⅓ cup sweet chocolate-flavored beverage mix

Sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; beat in egg thoroughly. Stir in sifted dry ingredients in four additions, alternately with sour cream, just until smooth. Spread about half (a little less than one cup) of the batter over the bottom of a buttered 8-inch size glass pie plate; sprinkle with the pecans mixed with the chocolate mix. Spoon over the remaining batter, spreading lightly with a small spatula. (It doesn't matter if a little of the chocolate-nut mixture blends with the bater.) Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until browned and top springs back lightly when touched—35 to 40 minutes; make sure center of cake is baked through. Cool in pie plate on wire rack; cut in wedges and serve warm.

Meat Loaf Sure Table Favorite

Appetizingly good — either hot or cold — brown and juicy meat loaf is a sure mealtime favorite whenever, wherever it is served.

Brimming with the good flavor of ground beef, this meat loaf truly rates its best-ever label. Onion, salt and pepper are the simple seasoning accents for the beef, and fine dry bread crumbs keep the texture light. Evaporated milk, used just as it pours from the can, is the secret of the juicy moistness. This double-rich milk deftly binds the ingredients and helps seal in natural juices during baking. Neatly sliceable, either hot or cold, this is

Best-Ever Meat Loaf

- 2 pounds ground chuck
- ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tall can evaporated milk (1⅓ cups)

Mix all ingredients lightly but thoroughly. Press lightly into loaf pan or dish (8½ x 4½ x 3 inches), smoothing top. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350° F.) for 1¼ hours. Cool 5 to 10 minutes before removing from pan. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

The columns at heights give the elevation of each tide above or below the level of Coast Survey chart surrounding. The numbers are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign or dash (-) when the numbers are subtracted from the depths given by the chart (U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey).
